

Biography of Crausy Ross

Crausy Ross was born into a musical family and started playing piano at the age of 3. She completed in many competitions during her childhood years. At the age of sixteen, she was amount the 16 pianists chosen to compete in The Mozart Bicentenary Piano Competition of Asia (1991). After participated in Queen Elizabeth Piano Competition in 1995, she went to the United States to continue her music education. She earned her Bachelor's degree in Piano Performance and Master's degree in Collaborative Piano (Piano Accompanying and Chamber Music) from Moores School of Music, University of Houston. As an undergraduate student, she won the third prize at HMTA Collegiate Competition and first prize at Phi Beta National Chapter Music Competition (1998). While in graduate school, Crausy worked as a staff accompanist for Moores School of Music and the highly-acclaimed Strafford High School band/orchestra program. Crausy now lives in Richardson with her husband and two children where she teaches piano and performs with solo artists. She is also the Musical Director for inOne Music Ministry where she enjoys writing and performing her own music.