

Introducing Mobile Rack Repair

By Hauser Business Enterprises

Goal: To provide the newest and most efficient method of repairing returnable containers.

Returnable containers are a necessary cornerstone of modern manufacturing. They must facilitate the movement of your products countless times over their long life spans. Over time these containers must be repaired due to damage or modified for continued use.

Repair of returnable containers are often handled by outside entities. Currently this method necessitates facilitating logistical entities to move your containers from your facility to the proper facility for eventual repair. This timeline is inefficient both in terms of time and money. The timeline is in many cases many days longer than necessary due to shipment, unloading and movement to the repair station, reloading, and eventual shipment and unloading at your facility. In terms of cost you are paying for unnecessary logistics and the time it takes for your associates to facilitate this process. Our mobile division will allow you advantages in both respects.

How does it work: Our mobile repair and modification unit will arrive at your facility fully prepared to repair or modify any durable container. This includes damage repair, welding, most modifications, grinding and finish work. Specialty items like dunnage may necessitate assessing and ordering of items before completion of repair. Our unit is completely self-sustaining in terms of electrical power, tools, movement of containers, and space to complete this work.

It will be safely cordoned off in an area that you choose. This includes appropriate safety materials such as cones and lighting. Due to the nature of this units' self-sustaining capabilities, there will be no cords or other materials that present a hazard to your associates.

Timeline: Our mobile division is ready to work for you. We can provide services at pre-determined times, including weekly, monthly, or other pre-arranged times. Additionally, we will always strive to provide time critical repairs as needed as an on-call provider.

What this means for your company is that your containers will be out of service for markedly less time, allowing you to return to full capacity more quickly.

Lastly, because these services are provided at your facility, you will have the previously unavailable benefit of immediate feedback. This will provide you the satisfaction of knowing that the work is being done to your specifications without waiting for multiple containers to reach your facility, only to realize that they are not adequate for your needs.

Safety and Legal Protection: Hauser Business Enterprises appreciates the need for safety in the modern work place. We carry all necessary insurances for on-the-job injuries to our employees. Our mobile units also have the required levels of fire and other workplace protections that would be expected of any business.
