VETCOR CELEBRATES LAUNCH WITH KICKOFF BREAKFAST WATER MITIGATION COMPANY HIRES MILITARY VETERANS EXCLUSIVELY

VetCor, the Florida water mitigation emergency services firm that exclusively hires military veterans, announced its Tampa Bay Kickoff Breakfast at Tampa's Centre Club at 123 South Westshore Boulevard on February 28th from 8:30 - 10:30 am. The company plans to open five offices throughout Florida in 2014. Each office will provide water mitigation and other services to consumers, insurance companies and agencies within their region. The firm's primary mission is to support former military veterans with private sector employment opportunities. "While there are outstanding training programs to provide our returning veterans skills in the marketplace, the missing piece is opportunities for these servicemen and women to put those skills to work," said David Howard, CEO of VetCor. "These individuals have character, integrity and drive – traits that have made America strong. As such, VetCor's technical and administrative staffing will only be employees who are United States military veterans," said Howard.

VetCor opened its doors on Veterans Day last year and has employed LTC(R) Paul Huszar, P.E. as President and SGM(R) Scott Walden as Director of Operations. These two senior managers have over 40 (combined) years in uniform. "VetCor will be the spark that will help many returning veterans continue their commitment to service. While in uniform, these men and women provided protection, support and assistance to civilians worldwide. As VetCor employees, they can make a difference to property owners in their hour of need," said Huszar. VetCor employees will reconnect with their communities in a variety of ways and will continue to serve "in uniform", continuing with the same values and work ethic instilled as military personnel.
