School Characteristics and Replicable Practices

Academic Excellence

We "name and claim" students so that none fall through the cracks.

Support from administration with time to meet together also enables teachers to plan rigorous instruction with content partners vertically, weekly, and with all building content teachers.

Developmental Responsiveness

Our staff as a whole invest and engage with students before, during, and after school in an effort to model good citizenship and the appropriate behaviors we want to see them demonstrate.

Our staff members often initiate programs and projects to extend a caring hand to those outside of our walls--we meet our students' needs and then inspire them to help meet others' needs.

Social Equity

Our greatest discrepancy among our students is the variance in socio-economic background. In order to meet the needs of our students, our school participates in a Community Eligibility Provision (CEP) program where all students, regardless of free and reduced lunch status, receive free breakfast and lunch. We also provide an after school dinner meal that allows us to feed our students three hot meals a day.

Organizational Support

Our school just designed new vision and mission statements to keep us all accountable and moving in the same coordinated direction.

We also foster and inherently value a problem-solving mentality, not a problem-identifying mentality--we are experts at seeing what needs to happen and figuring out, collectively, a way to eliminate barriers and maximize potential.
