

Magnus Evertson, MS, MBA, PMP
Senior Director, Due Diligence
Management

Mr. Magnus Evertson is a health sciences professional with over 18 years of pharmaceutical industry experience encompassing both early scientific research and the business skills needed to take the final products to market. His broad-ranging experience prepares him to more fully evaluate prospective investment candidates from a myriad of perspectives.

- With in-depth knowledge and experience in drug development and pipeline development he applies years of expertise as a scientific Study Director for in situ, in vitro and in vivo regulatory IND and NDA research to robust due diligence reviews of prospective investments.
- He then applies his extensive operational experience as a Project Management and Lean Six Sigma Black Belt professional to his due diligence review of investment candidates for a complete and in-depth understanding of organizational operations and leadership structure.
- Perhaps as importantly, Magnus applies his intimate experience in pipeline and launch strategy from years of professional experience in marketing strategy, market research, and competitive intelligence to his strategy review of prospective investments.

Magnus holds post-graduate degrees from Johns Hopkins University (M.S., Biotechnology) and Yale University (MBA) and is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP) and certified Lean Six Sigma Black Belt.

Additionally, Magnus is a certificated commercial airplane pilot and a certificated Driver Education and racecar coach and instructor with the Porsche Club of America.
