

Minister Audrey Graves

Since the early days of growing up in the Church, Minister Graves's desire to praise and worship God has always been a part of her life. From an early age, Minister Graves knew her path was music. From watching her father play the piano to her being taught the discipline that is required to be a musician, and her hearing the words, "practice, practice, practice" from her father when she was only 10. Minister Graves knew that she was destined to use her talents to glorify God.

After studying various forms of music for over 15 years, God blessed her with a "musician's ear" with the ability to pick up sounds and styles as well as the ability to teach others. Minister Graves didn't quite know where music would lead her, until she was led by God to True Vine Fellowship Full Gospel Church over where she served in the capacity of Praise and Worship leader for over 20 years. She was ordained in 2011 by Bishop Willie Davis as Minister of Music, a position that is not taken lightly by Minister Graves. She is very passionate about being a disciple of Jesus, leading the body of Christ into true worship and equipping and developing worship leaders. Minister Graves believes that "true worship" begins with relationship, not showmanship; in order to lead, you must first be led by God. Some of her achievements include playing and singing with several churches in Alabama and Mississippi and Directing the Angelic Voices of Faith at Alabama A&M University.
