By All Means

I have become all things to all people so that by all possible means I might save some.

- 1 Corinthians 9:22

Paul was committed to spreading the Good News of Christ and he used every means available. He preached in the market and by rivers. He traveled over land and sea. He took the Gospel to synagogues, palaces, and prisons. He reached out to communities and churches around the Roman world through letters that make up about half the books in the New Testament and nearly a quarter of its content.

In the last year and a half, the COVID pandemic has forced us to find new means of sharing our message as well. We have used cobbled together "worship moments" on Facebook and YouTube. A radio transmitter beamed music and the words of your, sometimes frozen sometimes sun baked, pastor to a congregation in the parking lot. Betty Rettig's cell phone has livestreamed worship services and, as I write, a video production system is being installed in the sanctuary. We have communicated by US mail, email, text messages, telephone, and Zoom. Imagine what Paul would have done with all of these means at his disposal!

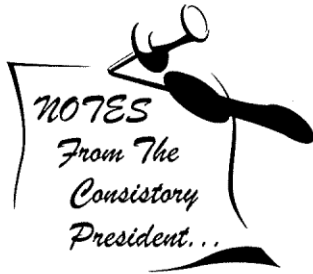

We may focus on new technology and fresh ways of using old technology but the truth is that we are the most important means of communicating Christ's message of hope and holding out his promise of "life to the full." (John 10:10) This is what Paul was talking about when he wrote, "We have this treasure in jars of clay." (2 Cor. 4:7) Professional video production and carefully crafted outreach campaigns are of some value, but seeing a life that is centered on Christ and committed to living for God is still the best means of communicating our faith.

Paul was communicating powerfully when he gave up the status and prestige of a Pharisee to become an Apostle of Jesus Christ. In his life, we see a man transformed, willing to risk anything, and endure everything, because of the surpassing value of the love and grace of God. That is a compelling message.

We are communicating by powerful means when we care for needy neighbors, when we make sacrifices for the good of others, and when we talk joyfully about the difference God makes in our lives. Technology is a tool but the "treasure" is something we carry around with us. It can never be sent, uploaded, or livestreamed. It can only be lived.

Our life of faith depends, not on a proclamation or declaration but on the incarnation of our Lord, Jesus. He did not cling to his place with God but humbled himself, loved, served, and endured the cross for us. (Philippians 2:5-11) When we understand this and live like Christ, we communicate in the most powerful way and will certainly draw others to God.

Your partner in Christ's work, Pastor David

SEASONS CHANGE....
LIVES CHANGE....
BUT OUR GOD NEVER CHANGES.

Some folks welcome the change of seasons, others don't.

Maybe you love winter with glistening snowfall, staying indoors in the warmth of your home, or spending time sledding or ice skating with your kids.

Maybe you love spring with the joy of the grass greening up, the flowers blooming, and the freshness after a spring rain.

Maybe you love summer with the warm temperatures, going to the beach with family and friends, tending to a garden and watching tomatoes ripen.

Maybe you love autumn with all the changes that take place this time of year. There is no way to ignore the increasingly shorter daylight, and increasingly longer darkness. There is no way to ignore the changes taking place in nature as the leaves change from green to beautiful hues of yellow, gold, and red. There is no way to ignore the cooler temperatures during the day, and the chill that comes at nightfall.

Well, we are in the midst of a change of season in our church family as we continue the process to search for and call a new pastor and teacher for our church. This is a season that is being welcomed by our pastor, as retirement has been weighing on his heart, as he looks toward a new time in his life. This change of season for our church may not be welcomed by our church family, as change is hard for everyone, no matter what it involves. Change will be hard for our pastor also, as he will be leaving all the dear folks of St. John's, whom he has grown to love.

Maxine Lagace is quoted to say, "The most important thing is to look ahead. The past is your anchor." And Helen Keller is quoted to say, "When one door of happiness closes, another opens: but often we look so long at the closed door that we do not see the one which has been opened for us."

Blessings to you, Christine Rettig

We know there are people out there who we are missing!
We are still looking for information about our former military members from St. John's. We have a list of those who served in the military in World War II and before. This was published in a book called War Stories. We would like to try to find out who has served our country since 1945 so we can do an addendum. We would like their name, branch of service, years served, what they did and where they served as well as a contact person if we need more information. We hope to include those who have passed away as well to recognize their service. Please send or e-mail the information to the church. We don't want to miss honoring these people and their service!

Noteworthy News

From Greg

THE OLD ORGAN PIPES ARE SOLD

Soon after the organ was installed, a tab was not working. The company sent Dan from Canton to repair it. We showed him the old pipes when he was here. Years later, he remembered we had them. He was repairing an organ in Parkersburg, WV. and thought ours would be perfect for the job. So he came last month and bought our pipes. Five hours later we had three ranks of pipes removed and packed in his van. (A rank is 72 pipes and we have 12 ranks). The next day he texted me with the sad news our pipes were not the right size. However, they were in such good shape he will use them in future repairs. He plans to make a few trips to remove the rest of them. The good news is they will be used in other churches' pipe organs.

A side story is when he came the first time, SHALOM was packing the Christmas gifts. He toured the Fellowship Hall marveling at the number of gifts and food being given away. He was touched deeply when a gift tag said warm socks and underwear. More touched when each box had a ham, cooking instructions and the pan to cook it in. He went back to his church and related the story, only to be told there was no need for that in Canton! So far he has started a mitten and hat tree which also includes warm socks and underwear. We do make a difference, not just in Henry County.

Congratulations to
