Attention: M. Baird, Claims Adjudicator

Dear Mr. Baird:

Re: Paul TAYLOR - [REDACTED]

Mr. Taylor last worked for our temporary business on August 19, 1997. He is claiming a recurrence of his back injury from February 6, 1997. It does not appear that any new accident or incident occurred to bring on this further back pain. The worker did not relay any new incident and claims it to be a recurrence. However about a month and half prior to his recurrence, he was let go from his steady assignment at Canadian Tire as a truck driver and has been on call on a day to day basis with various clients. We have managed to provide him with 40 hours of work per week at an hourly rate of $15.50.

We are rather skeptical that his present back pain is related to his February 1997 claim. As you will note on the original form 7, we felt this worker did have prior back problems and/or claims and that his ongoing back pain is unrelated to any of his assignments with us.

Yours truly,

Mrs. C. Panciw
WCB Administrator
