

ONTARIO'S LABOUR MARKET BRIEFING

AUGUST 2020

ONLINE WEBINAR:

THURS. JULY 30th from 3-4PM

While the pandemic is far from resolved, the critical issue for job seekers, employers and students in Ontario will increasingly focus on rehabilitating our labour market. The 'Ontario's Labour Market Briefing for August 2020' will examine the strategies being pursued to achieve this goal, the challenges faced by individuals struggling to find employment and the outlook for the remainder of 2020.

This one-hour webinar, will address the following topics:

- An examination of the July Labour Force Survey; providing insights into the reopening of Ontario's economy and the slow progress of growing our employment numbers, sectors that are recovering and projections for the 2nd half of 2020.
- Summary of the significant Ontario labour market stories, announcements, initiatives and research from July 2020.
- Spotlight on under-represented groups in the labour market including women, youth, immigrants, those with disabilities and Indigenous Canadians.
- Review of the labour market impacts on the retail sector — exploring the occupations that are being hardest hit; retailers that have closed or are likely to permanently close; and jobs in retail well-insulated from this massive change.
- Review of the new, improved and valuable labour market resources of greatest value during the economic crisis.
- Latest details on how the Province of Ontario and the Government of Canada are responding to the economic collapse and specific initiatives being undertaken to grow and cultivate the labour market.
- Summary of the very latest labour market research from local business, labour, financial, analytical, social policy and labour market research organizations.

All webinar participants will have access to the PowerPoint presentation used in this webinar.
