January 1, 2017
The Octave Day of Christmas
Solemnity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Mother of God

“And Mary kept all these things, reflecting on them in her heart.”

Mary grew up in the small of village of Nazareth on top of a craggy hill near the Sea of Galilee. There were about four hundred people, many related by birth or marriage. Few, if any, could read or write, and there were no modern means of communication. People actually had to speak to each other, face to face. Women went to the nearest well or stream to get the day’s supply of water and wash clothes. Men worked together in shops or in the fields. Families and neighbors gathered around campfires to cook. That is when they shared the latest news or gossip. When Mary said “Yes” to be the Mother of God Incarnate she knew she would be the topic of discussion. She knew people would not understand and she could be stoned to death. She did it anyway. Her “Yes” brought her much grief. She did it anyway. That is why we honor Mary as the Mother of God. That is why we should spend this day learning from Mary and making every effort to be more like her - to say “Yes” to God. And when things are difficult, to do it anyway.
