Musician of the month

Julie Keirle

Julie Keirle has enjoyed singing and playing ukulele for indoor and outdoor events for over 5 years in the Zanesville and New Concord area. Julie plays for art galleries, holiday shows, story festivals in New Concord, private dinner events, retirement communities, and at The Wilds in Cumberland for the sunset dinner tour. Having studied music, Julie plays flute and sings in the church choir. However, it was the ukulele that inspired her to entertain. "The ukulele is a portable, social way to share fun music, so I decided to learn how to play." "The ukulele can sound like a guitar," Julie says. "It supports all kinds of music, ranging from old-school classics to jazz and blues, to pop. I had a request to play "Dancing Queen", so I can say I even play disco! When a song captures my attention, I like to see if it will translate well to suite my voice and uke." "A musician can add to the ambiance of a special event, getting people to smile, laugh, and chat, creating happy memories. It can add to the whole take-away experience of the event." Julie truly enjoys helping people connect with one another through music. You can hear Julie play Friday, May 6th from 6:15p.m. – 8:30p.m. at the Kristen Brown Art Studio, 605 Market St., in Zanesville, OH. Email Julie at JulieJttK@gmail.com or contact ArtCoz for more information about booking Julie to play for your event.

Artist of the Month

Jessica Spires

Jess Spires was born in Zanesville, Ohio, in 1973. Spires is mostly a painter, alternating between watercolor and acrylics, but also enjoys photography and sculpture. Owner of Guitar Parts Factory she is a serious businesswoman by day. When she isn't working, she spends her time cooking, gardening, boating, listening to live music, loving her family, and creating colorful folk paintings signed with her nickname, BunkoJess.

In her whimsical paintings, she often blends guitar and music symbols with nature themes, such as owls, flowers, suns, and moons. When Spires started painting in junior high, she knew she'd found a life-long love. After high school, she began working for Longaberger Basket Factory, enrolled at Ohio University-Zanesville. She kept painting on and off until a favorite art professor told her no matter how much she loved painting; it was impossible to earn a living as an artist. She was earning more at the factory than he was teaching, a job he struggled to like and thought she, too, would. Although he meant well, she drifted from painting, changed her major to political science, and didn't pick up a brush again for a decade. Instead, she focused on business. When she met her husband, David, she began painting again, and he encouraged her in every attempt. She remembered love.

A working art and music gallery featuring the works of Jessica Spires, Carrie Turner, Gregorio Biolcati Rinaldi, and David Spires. When you visit, you may find us working on a canvas, modeling, or songwriting. Jessica has always loved being part of groups that encourage each other – from ZAAP to Tennessee Art League, and Art Party to OAL. Join us for our Grand Opening on First Friday, May 6th!
