FEATHERS IN THE WIND

I asked to have put on one of our wedding rings the same thing Abraham Lincoln had put on Mary Todd Lincoln's ring, "Love is eternal."

After nearly 49 years, 2 re-sizings and finally having had to have the ring cut off my finger the inscription is hard to see, but the sentiment remains.

This, being Memorial Day weekend, brings that sentiment back even more so.

HOPS

Just as there are dozens of varieties of grapes used for wine making, there are a ton of different kinds of hops available to brewers. And just like wine grapes, hops of different strains and from different growing regions bring to the table different flavors, aromas, and bittering capabilities.

For starters, hop strains differ in terms of their alpha acid and essential oil levels. Hops with high amounts of alpha acids are especially useful for adding sharp, angular bitterness to a finished beer. Hops with loads of essential oils contribute the most in terms of flavor and aroma. Some strains have sufficient levels of both to be appropriate for all three applications.

In general, hops strains are categorized by their geography of origin. The three most prominent categories are Noble hops, which come from Germany and the Czech Republic; American hops from the United States; and English hops, from--your guessed it--England. Within each category, there are many hop strains to choose from.

We walk along the rows of white markers and, as we age, our hearts pull because we recognize more and more names. Husbands, wives, parents, Tantas, Unkels, friends, neighbors - people we have known and loved. We remember their faces, words, wisdom, and love as we long so very much to tell them how much they meant to us.

The floral tributes never seem enough. Some of us even got tears in our eyes, but this is were the saying comes to mind, "Love is eternal."

God's love is the greatest love. He gave us the beauty of the earth and the people that have graced our lives. Most of all he gave us Christ and the hope of eternal life with him and those who have gone before us and will someday follow.

Love lives on each day whether it is a hug, kiss, kind word, smile, or just a look. It is a prayer from us to God that love will go on and on and we will learn to see good in all things no matter how hard the trial.

Noble Hops

Of the three categories, Noble hops, which includes strains like Saaz and Tettnanger, are considered the most classic. They are what lend traditional German and Czech pilsners and lagers their characteristic flavor profiles. Noble hops tend to be particularly rich in the high-aroma essential oil humulene and have low alpha acid levels.

American Hops

American hops, including heavy hitters like Cascade and Centennial, tend to be bold, bright, and highly aromatic. In general, they have higher amounts of the essential oil myrcene, which gives them their characteristic citrus and pine notes.

English Hops

In contrast, English hops (Fuggle is an example) have lower levels of myrcene. This allows the more subtle aromas of other essential oils to shine through. The profiles of English hops, therefore, tend to be more delicate and mild. Notes of earth, molasses, herbs, spice, and wood are common. English hops constitute only a small percentage of hops grown worldwide but are imperative to traditional British ales.
