

Beverly Gray

Beverly was born in Boston and raised in Brookline, MA. She earned a BS from Simmons College and a MA, MLS and Certificate in African Studies from Columbia University. Beverly served as African Studies Librarian at Boston University and Harvard College Library, and retired as Chief of the African & Middle Eastern Division at the Library of Congress. She is a Life Member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority and the Afro-American Historical and Genealogical Society. Beverly volunteers at the David C. Driskell Center, The University of Maryland and the White House. She was introduced to the Oracle Set Book Club by Rosalyn Coates in 1998. “I am fortunate to be a member of a dynamic group of women who read and discuss books by and about African-Americans, with an occasional venture into the broader African Diaspora. Look forward to the annual June business meetings when books are chosen for the following season.”
