Join us for a weekend with Jacy Kelly
Practical Hide Placement Saturday, June 24

Container Fun, Sunday, June 25

Private lessons available on Monday, June 26

Jacy Kelley is a former United States Air Force and professional working dog handler with over 20 years of experience handling detection dogs. He became a Certified Nose Work Instructor in 2010 and teaches K9 Nose Work® classes and workshops in the Northern Virginia area and throughout the United States. He is also an experienced NACSW Trial Certifying Official. Jacy Kelley offers the best of both worlds: years of professional detection experience plus complete familiarity with all aspects of K9 Nose Work® for pet and performance dogs.

Jacy is noted as a gifted teacher, with a commonsense approach and good-humored style. He creates an environment where teams at every level have fun and learn new skills.

Practical Hide Placement Saturday, June 24

Practical Hide Placement is designed to help you, the handler, be more thoughtful when setting your own hides. This workshop will also help trainers to see what their hides will do and to predict training scenarios for their students. You will be able to maximize search potential by learning about hide placement, environmental factors that influence the search, setting training goals and how to adjust them as the search progresses.

Container Fun, Sunday June 25

Containers are awesome, said no one ever. If you are like us, containers are the bane of your existence. Containers can be one of the scariest searchers for competitors.

Jacy will talk about and show ways to make these searches fun and exciting for both the handler and their dog.

Private Lessons, Monday, June 26

45-minute, private lessons are available on Monday, June 26. A session may be split between two people.
