A note from Rick: Markets held steady again this week at TLA. Nothing really new to report as far as dairy cattle, slaughter cattle, or calves and feeders. We did have a few more loads of hay to test the market a little. It's definitely not the same market it was last winter or early spring but that is to be expected during the summer months when so many people are making hay and also have pasture to use. We've had adequate rainfall in Northern Indiana and also some decent windows to get nice hay made for the most part. That's not necessarily the case for parts of the western states. Dry weather has put a damper on the hay crop, along with grazing this summer. It will be interesting to see how this affects our prices this fall and winter as typically there is a lot of hay brought into this area from the west. Enjoy the beautiful summer weather we're getting! See you soon at TLA!
