Altar Cloths and Linens

Just as the altar is a sign for us of Christ the living stone, altar cloths are used “out of reverence for the celebration of the memorial of the Lord and the banquet that gives us his body and blood.” By their beauty and form they add to the dignity of the altar in much the same way that vestments solemnly ornament the priests and sacred ministers. Such cloths also serve a practical purpose, however, in absorbing whatever may be spilled of the Precious Blood or other sacramental elements. Thus the material of altar cloths should be absorbent and easily laundered.

Altar linens, because of their use in the liturgy, especially those which will receive the sacred species, should be “beautiful and finely made, though mere lavishness and ostentation must be avoided.” They are deserving of special respect and care, are always kept clean, and should be washed in the traditional way.

The traditional way of washing used altar linens (corporals, purificators, and palls)

- Check to see if there are any particles of the host adhering to them.
- Place them in a bowl or basin reserved for this purpose, where they are given a first washing by hand in clean water.
- Remove them from the bowl or basin and put them aside for additional washing and ironing.

After the first washing, the water should be poured into the sacrarium or into the ground in a suitable place. After this the second washing can be done in the usual way.

Altar cloths, corporals, purificators, lavabo towels and palls should be made of absorbent cloth and never of paper.

Altar linens are appropriately blessed according to the Order for the Blessing of Articles for Liturgical Use. The blessing of a number of such articles for liturgical use may take place “within Mass or in a separate celebration in which the faithful should take part.”
