DIRECTOR'S NOTE:

Welcome to our production of Next to Normal! The cast and crew have worked tirelessly to bring this show to life and to portray each character with the depth and nuance they deserve. I am immensely honored to have the opportunity to work on this show and to collaborate with such an incredible and dedicated cast and crew.

My introduction to Next to Normal came through my niece. While listening to music together, the song "Superboy and the Invisible Girl" from one of her favorite musicals began to play. The style of music and the song itself instantly captivated me, and I became eager to learn more. Upon watching the musical, I was profoundly moved by its story and depth, which made it clear why it ranks among her favorites.

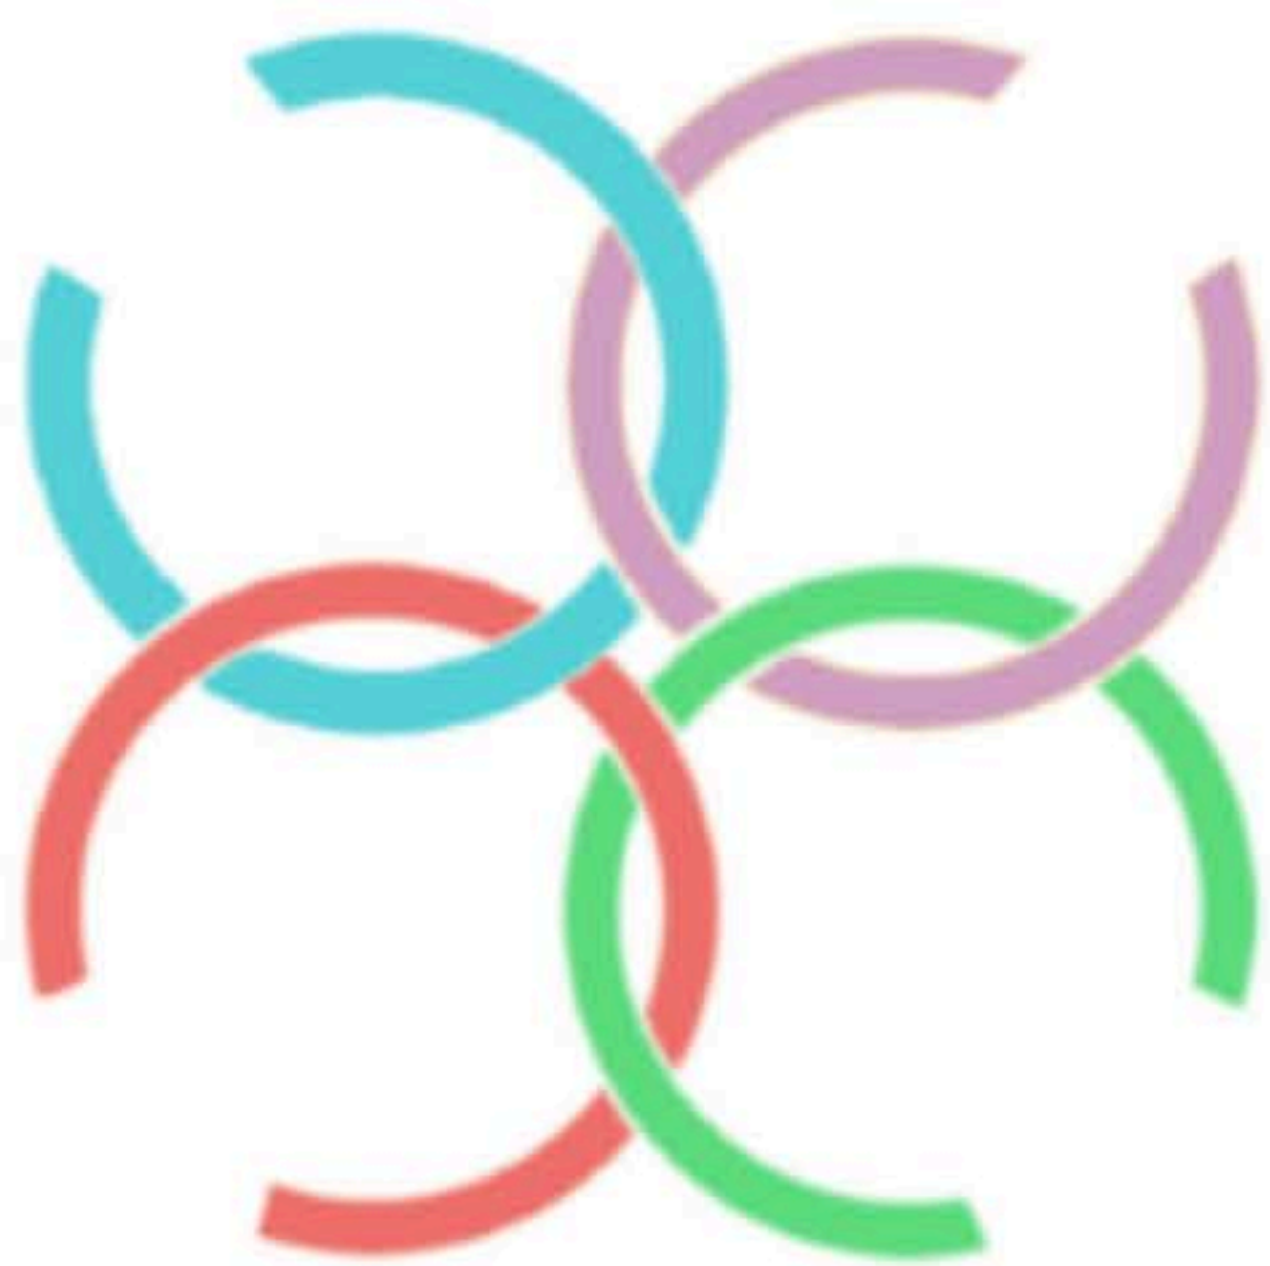

For me, Next to Normal is more than just a show; it is a raw and honest exploration of how mental illness can impact every aspect of our lives. The musical, with its incredible score and thought-provoking story, confronts the struggles of living with bipolar disorder, the impact on family relationships, and the often-overwhelming desire to maintain a façade of normalcy.

Our production aims to honor the heart of this story by focusing on authenticity and empathy. The journey through this musical is both heart-wrenching and inspiring. It challenges us to reconsider our perceptions of mental health and encourages a dialogue about how we support one another through our darkest times. The music, with its intricate melodies and powerful lyrics, serves not only to propel the narrative but also to illuminate the inner lives of the characters, offering a window into their hopes, fears, and moments of clarity.

As you watch this performance, we invite you to reflect on the themes of the show and how they resonate with your own experiences. Our hope is that by sharing this story, we can foster a greater understanding of mental health and a deeper empathy for those who live with its realities.

On behalf of the entire cast and crew, I want to extend our gratitude for your presence at the show and your support of the arts. Thank you for joining us on this journey and allowing us to tell this story!

-Todd Taylor
