Sacred Vestments (Part Two)

Priests

In celebrating Holy Mass and in administering the Eucharist, priests are to wear the sacred vestments prescribed by the rubrics. The vestment proper to the priest celebrant at Holy Mass and other sacred actions directly connected with Mass, unless otherwise indicated, is the chasuble, worn over the priestly stole and on top of an alb. Except in the case of concelebrants when there is an insufficient number of chasubles available, priests are never to celebrate Holy Mass without a chasuble.

Deacons

At the celebration of Holy Mass and in administering the Eucharist, deacons are to wear the sacred vestments prescribed by the rubrics. The vestment proper to the deacon is the dalmatic, worn over the alb and stole. The stole is worn by the deacon over his left shoulder and drawn diagonally across the chest to the right side, where it is fastened.

The dalmatic may be omitted out of necessity or on account of a lesser degree of solemnity, but “in order that the beautiful tradition of the Church may be preserved, it is praiseworthy to refrain” from omitting it. It should be borne in mind also that Sunday celebrations of the Eucharist are not occasions for lesser solemnity, since Sunday is itself a very important occasion in the life of the faithful people. Accordingly, parishes should aim to have full sets of dalmatics with matching stoles and in the appropriate liturgical colors.

Other Norms:

The cope is worn by a bishop, priest or deacon in processions and in other sacred actions, in keeping with the norms proper to each celebration. In the Archdiocese of Portland in Oregon, it is not to be worn by laypeople, including cantors.

The garment common to ministers of any rank is the alb, to be tied at the waist with a cincture unless it is made so as to fit without it. Before the alb is put on, should this not completely cover the ordinary clothing including a clerical collar at the neck, an amice should be worn.

A cassock and surplice cannot be worn in place of an alb with a chasuble or dalmatic, or when the norms for a rite specify that a stole is to be worn over an alb (for example, when Confirmation or a funeral liturgy is celebrated apart from Mass).
