Finland resident has out-of-body experience

Many of us here in Northern Minnesota are used to cold weather and plenty of snow this time of year. We're hearty, strong, and always Minnesota nice. There's snowmobiling, skiing, sledding, snowball fights, and so much more. That's why we live here, right? The rest of us are most certainly tired of winter already, but some have found a way to enjoy even just a small portion of it.

As we hunkered down inside

our warm homes when the mercury dipped well into the sub-zero temperatures last week, and that's not including the wind chill factor, someone had a little fun with good ol' Mr. Frost. Just alongside the Little Marais Road (Lake County 6), Paul Deaner snapped this photo of frozen pants standing at attention. What a smart way to have fun with the "negative" weather. Now if I could just find somewhere to put all this snow! Hey, Mr. Frost.... we're full, move along.
