Phase V Board of Directors Meeting May 10, 2017

Meeting was called to order by President Bill Charles at 1:07 p.m.

All board members were present and 17, Phase V residents were in attendance. Meeting began with the Pledge of Allegiance.

Minutes from last meeting were approved as written, without comment or corrections.

Jim Reushlein, gave the financial report for the month of April 2017, we are actually a little under budget at this time. However, we have not begun the repairs of painting, cement, gardening sprinklers and building repairs as yet. At the time of the meeting the damage from the storm on the roofs, buildings, trees, etc., Jim is still waiting for the insurance company to come back with the amount they will cover and a okay to begin the repairs. budget was off about a $1,000.00 mostly due to a water increase that had not been figured when doing the budget.

The nest collection from the geese was a total of 22 eggs from 5 nests. 2 nests seemed to have been missed by the geese laying later than the DNR date given for allowed collection.

A request was granted to give our annual donation of $300.00 to the gardening group of 1-1V to beautify the entrance into our complex.

Management report was given and approved with Cindy asking for approval and myself for seconding. The report included 3 units for sale. One on Arlington Cir for $84,900. One on Lexington for $ 89,900. and one on Yorktown for $84,900. Aged receivables are $4,728.55. mostly just 1 month delinquencies with late charges or fines.

Paul Tralla's additional charges for the month were $1,283.88. which included replacement of all street signs hot water heater replacements, thermos couplers, gas valves, and miscellaneous repairs. Approval by the board was also given to Paul to purchase 10 additional Water heaters before a price increase this summer.

The walk around inspections have been completed. We will begin the wood replacement program this month and anticipate completing six wood buildings and six vinyl buildings this year. The Board has been researching the cost and value added of replacement of wood buildings to vinyl. This will be discussed as we get even further along on our studies and plausibility's of being able to achieve this for the benefits of our current and future residents. We have also be working on updating the Rules and Regulations. We hope to have all the additions and deletions. completed and printed by June and ready for Implementation by August 2017. Don't forget next Board meeting will be a evening meeting as requested. (hope to see you there).

Our new pool crew...( Debbie and Katie) have gone to training and are ready and anxious to begin our season! We should be open by the end of the month as anticipated.

If You Have Diabetes, Do You “Know Your Numbers?”

As of 2016, more than 29 million Americans were living with diabetes and 86 million were living with pre-diabetes. Type I diabetes occurs when a patient's body doesn't produce enough insulin to lower his/her blood sugar to normal levels. On the other hand, type II diabetes occurs when a patient's body doesn't respond properly to insulin. These patients have what is commonly referred to as 'insulin resistance,' meaning their body produces insulin but their tissues and organs don't respond to that insulin appropriately. This type of diabetes is much more common and is lifestyle-induced. If you have been diagnosed with diabetes or pre-diabetes, here are several important numbers that you should be familiar with to manage your condition.

1. Hemoglobin A1C (pronounced A-one-see): An average measure of your blood sugar over the past 90 days. A normal A1C (someone without diabetes) is below 5.7%. A patient with pre-diabetes has an A1C of 5.7 to 6.4%. An A1C of 6.5% or greater indicates diabetes.
2. 100 mg/dL: A normal fasting (8 hours without eating) blood sugar reading for someone without diabetes.

3. < 70 mg/dL: Low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). When a patient's blood sugar gets to this level he/she will likely feel sweaty, shaky, nauseous, and have a rapid heartbeat (tachycardia).
4. Yearly: Patients with diabetes should have a comprehensive eye exam by an optometrist or ophthalmologist every year. Diabetes is the leading cause of adult blindness. Excess blood glucose is believed to change proteins throughout the body, including the eyes, which can lead to retinopathy.
5. 5-10%: It has been shown that losing 5-10% of your body weight can help prevent/delay type II diabetes. Aim for at least 150 minutes/week of moderate physical activity. Not only will this lower your blood sugar, but also your blood pressure and cholesterol.

AFTERNOON READING ADVENTURES

By Jess Hesselgrave,
 Salem, South Lyon Library

The Stars are Fire by Anita Shreve

In October 1947, after a long summer drought, fire breaks out all along the Maine coast from Bar Harbor to Kittery. Grace Holland, five-months pregnant, is left to protect her two toddlers when her husband, Gene, joins the volunteer firefighters. Grace and her best friend Rosie, a mother of two herself, watch helplessly as their houses and town burn, and turn to the only place safe from the flames – the ocean. After a perilous night protecting their children and awaiting to hear of their husband's fates, the two women face an uncertain future in a town that no longer exists.

This Fight Is Our Fight: The Battle to Save America's Middle Class by Elizabeth Warren

Senator Elizabeth Warren has been an outspoken advocate for America's middle class, and by the time of her election in 2012, was one of the country's leading progressive voices. Warren grew up middle class, and recognized how her family struggled. This book explores President Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal and how it ushered in an age of prosperity, President Ronald Reagan's disastrous trickle-down economics, and how Donald Trump's administration is pushing the middle class closer to catastrophic collapse. In her trademark candid style, Warren tells about her battles in the Senate fighting for hard-working Americans who are so often over looked.

History in Your Backyard

The New Old South Lyon Hotel: Bigger, Better Next Month

By Bill Semion

We all know what happened to our old “Buck Board” meeting place last year. The creaky South Lyon Hotel was wiped out. Virtually to the ground.

If all goes according to plan, Phase V’ers looking to head back to the hotel that’s been a downtown South Lyon fixture since 1867, will be able to do just that in late July, says its co-owner Chris Baker. Baker also owns Baker’s of Milford and the Comeback Inn in Highland.

So, instead of urging you all go get out of your chairs and explore the state this month, I’m urging you all to get out of your chairs and explore your town, and be one of the first to enter the New South Lyon Hotel. Here’s part of what you’ll find.

Some opening specials may just include that “Buck Board,” featuring several lunch items for one dollar that was a favorite of Colonial Acres residents. In fact, at least a dozen or so made it a point to visit weekly for that special before the fire ended those meetings temporarily. When it re-opens, you’ll recognize some old touches, and definitely some improvements, Baker said.

Originally built on the site of an old cemetery—yup, an old cemetery—the Commercial House was heated by four large fireplaces.

When trains stopped, the hotel’s buckboard would race competitors to the station to lure travelers to its table fare and rooms, hence the term Buck Board. Each week, when those one-dollar items were on the menu, Phase V’ers regularly held court until the old watering hole went up in a late night fire last June, with no loss of life.

When you return, which may happen as soon as late July, you’ll notice lots of positive changes besides the new building. First among them is that you won’t need to climb the steps up to the front porch to get inside. Entry will be at street level, even though the patios on both first and second floors will still be part of the look, Baker said.

The kitchen, where the fire is presumed to have started, will now be on the building’s north side. If you don’t want to or can’t use the stairs, an elevator will also bring you to the second floor dining areas and patio.

The interior layout will be more open, allowing for easier access and more seating and you can choose from a menu that will be similar to the pre-fire version, with a few new items as well.

The same chef and many of the staff, will be returning to serve you.

And, good news for us, Baker said he’ll soon be working on how he and co-owner Corry Bala can retain those inexpensive Buck Board specials. He also hinted that there may also be special, just-for-us pricing on some items to welcome Colonial Acres residents back through its doors.

“We’re trying to keep some of the old look to it, but it will be modern, match the rest of downtown’s buildings, and will be there for a long, long time. The big bad wolf’s not blowing this one down,” Baker said.

Watch for updates on the hotel’s anticipated grand opening in next month’s edition.

If a Pet Fish is No Longer Wanted By Denise Semion

Is it OK to set unwanted aquatic pets free in a public pond or river? No, says the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR). Each year the MDNR receives numerous reports of unique species showing up in waterbodies throughout the state. I remember a piranha reported in Stony Creek Lake at Stony Creek Metropark once posing such a problem.

How these species, like that former pet piranha, got into the water can be a mystery, but one method is 100-percent preventable: don't dump a fish or other aquatic pets into public waters.

"Pet release is almost never humane. Pets released from confined, artificial environments are poorly equipped to fend off predators and may be unable to successfully forage for food or find shelter," said Nick Popoff, manager of the DNR's Aquatic Species and Regulatory Affairs Unit.

Dumping fish or other aquatic animals into public waterbodies is illegal, as doing so requires a permit from the state of Michigan. This includes the release of aquarium fish like goldfish or pacus, or farm-raised fish from private ponds.

There is a statewide campaign in Michigan working to educate people about proper maintenance and disposal of their pets or aquarium species. The campaign, Reduce Invasive Pet and PLant Escapes (RIPPLE), strives to provide solutions opposite of dumping them in a local river, lake or stream.

"If your fish or other species has outgrown its tank or has begun to feed on your other fish, you should consider donating or trading it with another hobbyist, an environmental learning center, an aquarium or a zoo," said Jo Latimore with Michigan State University Extension and RIPPLE.

Additionally, you can often check with the store where you purchased the fish or species to see if they will take it back.

For more information on the RIPPLE campaign, visit michigan.gov/invasives or check out RIPPLE's new video at <https://youtube/iOXeYZk8-V8>.

Moving on...by Nancy Meininger

By now, many of you have learned that my husband Tom and I have decided to give up our snowbird wings and settle permanently in Florida.

I wanted to take this opportunity to thank you for being such a great group of volunteers who were always there when I needed someone to pitch in and help. You proved that we can work together as a village and accomplish great things—like the many events and activities we did last year, from the Spring Fashion Show to the Health and Wellness Day, from our volunteer luncheon to our over 80 Milestone Birthday Party, our Ladies Hat Tea to our Chinese nights and Friday fish fries. All of these activities were fun because of you. Participation is everything.

I will miss the group of ladies lunch bunch gals who trouped with me through the Heavenly Scent Herb Farm in Howell, the Tyme Well Spent and Sweet Afton tea rooms in Hartland and Plymouth, Greenmead in Northville and the winery and cider mill in that city. You were there to cruise around Kensington Lake and pet Llamas in Brighton. Whether we ate in or picnicked out, together we had a great time.

I feel confident I can hand over the gavel to you knowing there is strength out there to carry forward the ideals I held—to make this a better, happier place for everyone to live.

If you come to Florida, you will find us at On Top of the World in Ocala, a community much like this on a larger scale. There, Tom and I have started a Michigan Club where we have 60 members including Sue and Larry Latham and Steve and Kathy Becker from Colonial Acres Phase V. We meet monthly and have most recently held an outdoor Coney Island Day and Kentucky Derby hat party.

In Florida as here, we are in it for the fun of it!

The American Legion, of Scheffer - McIlvoy Post 338 would like to thank every resident who has contributed tabs from your soda/beer cans, and deposited them at the Clubhouse. We would like for you to continue placing those tabs into the jar at the kitchen area at the Clubhouse.

The last time we turned in those tabs, we had enough money from them to give to the Mott Children Hospital in Ann Arbor. That money was used to purchase construction paper so the children there could cut out their names and have a streamer when they had pasted the letter together. It also went to make dinners for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Years for the families who have children in the hospital. There were toys/gifts for the other children of the ones in there too, since the parents who weren't able to get them for them.

The American Legion Golf Outing — Men, Women, or Mixed Couples Saturday, July 29

There are sign-up sheets on the bulletin board in the Clubhouse

Proceeds are used to support veterans and members of their families.

Ingredients:

- |                         |                    |
|-------------------------|--------------------|
| 1 large onion           | 2 Tbsp brown sugar |
| 1 pork tenderloin       | Coleslaw           |
| 1 Tbsp salt             | Mini Buns          |
| 1 tsp black pepper      |                    |
| 1 tsp paprika           |                    |
| 1 cup chicken broth     |                    |
| 1 cup BBQ sauce         |                    |
| 2 Tbsp Worcestershire   |                    |
| 1 garlic clove, pressed |                    |

Chop onion and place into bottom of slow cooker. Combine salt, pepper, paprika and generously sprinkle over pork tenderloin. Place meat over onions. For the marinade, combine chicken broth, BBQ sauce, Worcestershire sauce, brown sugar, and garlic. Stir and pour marinade over pork. Cover and set on low for 8 hours. Remove the meat to a large bowl and shred with forks. Serve on mini buns and top with coleslaw. Enjoy!
