NSCHA HARDSHIP APPLICATION

(Special consideration to lower or raise a member's INITIAL rider rating)

If an applicant feels they are not capable of competing at the rating established by the guidelines of the NSCHA they may appeal to the NSCHA committee to lower their INITIAL rider rating by the show producer, a NSCHA judge and one well established NSCHA member signing this application. They will then have a 30 day permit to show at their tentative rating while the committee investigates and votes. If approved, the NSCHA reserves the right to review rider status up to a period of 6 months. Once INITIAL rider rating is established only their NSCHA official earnings according to NSCHA rule will change a rider's rating. The same guidelines will apply if an NSCHA approved judge or producer feels that a rider well exceeds their INITIAL rider rating at the rider's first NSCHA event and may follow the same steps and raise the rider's rating under the same review process.

Please indicate why you feel your rating should be changed:

I understand any falsification could result in a $500 fine and a minimum 6 month suspension.

In agreement, I hold the National Sorting Cow Horse Association and club affiliates to the NSCHA harmless and not liable for accidents, injury or theft to person or property.
