

SCARBOROUGH : The north bay side of the headland is more exposed to strong gales and high energy waves. Therefore, in front of the sea wall, as added protection, rock armouring of large, resistant igneous and metamorphic rocks is placed to help absorb wave energy.

