

SUNDAY MORNING MEDITATION

By the grace of God I've been delivered from great outward sins. Thank God I'm forgiven and "I'm kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation" (I Pet. 1:5). But insight into my own heart convinces me that, if not kept by divine power, I could easily fall into grievous sin. Moreover my sins of neglect, omission, and missed opportunities keep me full of shame. The blessed fact of God's forgiveness isn't sufficient reason for me to forgive myself. I go forward in joyful confidence of salvation; but I also carry with me much humiliation and regret. The apostle Paul was a trophy of grace indeed, having gone from persecutor of Christ to champion for Christ. And yet to the last he saw himself as "the chief of sinners" (I Tim. 1:15). Remembering the sort of man I am without grace keeps me low in my own eyes. All for Jesus, Richard
