

TOGETHER WE CAN WIN

Save America's Postal Service!

The U.S. Postal Service is under attack. Our national treasure is in the grips of a manufactured financial crisis that is being used to justify an all-out assault on postal workers, on service to the people, and on the USPS as a great public institution.

The American Postal Workers Union will bargain with postal management for a new contract from Feb. 19 until May 20, when the current contract expires. The contract will cover more than 200,000 workers.

Our goal is to win a labor agreement that protects stable jobs and guarantees Americans their constitutional right to have good postal services, regardless of who they are, where they live, or how much money they have.

Dismantling the nation's postal system doesn't only harm postal workers; it robs the people of speedy delivery of their medicine, their online purchases, local newspapers, bill payments, letters and invitations. It also robs communities of a vital public service, secure jobs, a strong tax base, and an important component of our nation's infrastructure. And the USPS doesn't use a dime of taxpayer's money!

Good Service, Good Jobs!

The American Postal Workers Union is fighting to stop the closing of post offices and reductions in service. In fact, we want to expand post office hours and services. A good example is the Campaign for Postal Banking, which is fighting to secure postal financial services for the millions of Americans who don't have access to banks.

We need your help. Please support the fight for better postal services and for a labor contract that is fair to postal workers. For more information, contact us at nccc@apwu.org or visit our website, at www.apwunccc.org.

APWU
American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO