TOOLS
FOR Success

It is critical for students that curriculum be clear across grade levels and disciplines. Allowing those teachers time to look and what is being taught in their classroom and how that aligns with the grades before and after them is vital to the success of their students.

Topics to be discussed:

- How does what you are teaching in your classroom enhance what was taught about the subject in the past?
- How does what you are teaching in your classroom provide baseline information for what is coming in the next grade level?
- How far are you to delve into various topics based on your state standards?
- How can your teaching benefit the learning of your students throughout their educational journey?

Key Take a ways:

- A clear defined vertically aligned plan of what to teach in each classroom based on the standards.
- A scope and sequence that outlines the school year in accordance of scaffolding from previous and future years.
- Measurable data points for ensuring comprehension of your students.
- A clear plan that will allow students to receive the same information regardless of who is teaching it.
