COVID 19, the Flu and Colds are illnesses we would rather not be thinking about but here are some tips to arm ourselves against these nasty invaders!

Let's start with GARLIC, a ruthless assassin of colds and infections. The founders of SAKARA, a company that believes "Food is one of the most powerful tools to help you manifest the things you want in life. Food is medicine and pleasure and an incredibly potent catalyst for change." Why do they actively promote garlic? "As one of the most potent natural antimicrobials, antivirals and antifungals, garlic (and one of its chemical compounds called allicin) is an enemy of illness-causing microorganisms. Enjoying garlic, especially raw, on a regular basis can help prevent colds and infections. It is also good for regulating blood sugar levels, reducing LDL (low-density lipoprotein) cholesterol, blood pressure, increasing circulation and preventing and reversing heart disease."

Garlic can be hard on the stomach when eaten by itself, therefore it is recommended to keeping it mixed into meals.

Another superfood spotlight is on COCONUT, one of the most multi-talented healers in the plant world. Coconut oil contains lauric acid and MCT (Monocrotaline) aka healthy fat which can function as an anti-inflammatory agent, fight yeasts, parasites, bacterial overgrowth and even common viruses like the cold. Coconut is hydrating and rich in fiber and nutrients and is especially magical in its raw, fresh form.

Since the start of the pandemic in 2020, we have become aware that the coronavirus poses a serious threat to heart health. Chronic diseases, including high blood pressure, diabetes and heart disease make us more vulnerable to serious COVID complications. Please add superfoods to your meals to help with the immunity fight against these unwanted invaders!!

Dr. Crandall, author of the Heart Health Report suggests we have first-aid supplies on hand including a thermometer and an oximeter, which is a fingertip device for measuring oxygen levels. Low oxygen can be an important warning sign of COVID -19 infection.

These are challenging times so hopefully you can get out to enjoy nature and get refreshed. As Vincent Van Gogh said, "If you truly love nature, you will find beauty everywhere."

Wishing you and yours happy and healthy days,
Sincerely,
Donna Konopka

EXTERIOR IMPROVEMENTS AND DEED RESTRICTIONS

Deed Restrictions exist in order to maintain an aesthetic uniformity between properties in a subdivision. Although many people regard Deed Restrictions as annoying to say the least, the enforcement of these restrictions is critical if we want to maintain our property values.

Neighborhoods are not that different from individual homes. They can be well-maintained or allowed to fall into disrepair. Look at a neighborhood that may have restrictions but they are not enforced. What you usually see is a myriad of roof colors, some yards with a forest of trees and others with none, pink flamingos in the front yard... You get the picture.

Let me give you an example of how the non-enforcement of Deed Restrictions may affect our property values.

Let us say the average home price in WWL is $300,000 and we have 630 homes in our subdivision. That yields a total property value of almost $55 million. This is the value of assets our HOA is trying to protect. If through the non-enforcement of Deed Restrictions our property values decrease by a moderate 20% that is $11 million or about $17,500 per home. A considerable amount of money! Some estimates show subdivisions with an inactive association can fall as much as 40%.

The primary difference between an attractive and unattractive neighborhood is not really the deed restrictions but the willingness of the HOA board to enforce these restrictions through fine assessment or possible legal action. It is understandable most people want to make their home their own but in the case of exterior modifications, it is best to ask permission than forgiveness.

GENISTA CATERPILLAR

Genista caterpillars can often be seen on Mountain Laurel but may also be found on crape myrtle and honeysuckle. These caterpillars can grow up to one inch in length and are yellowish-green with small black and white dots along their body. They have sporadic hairs protruding along the body, but are not covered densely.

Genista caterpillars create and feed within webbing similar to webworms. The caterpillars have chewing mouthparts and cause defoliation of the plant. Eggs are laid in overlapping clusters on the underside of leaves. Pupation occurs in a small, white silken cocoon that is attached to plants or structures. There are two generations per year.

Management of outbreaks can be rather simple. If plant size and number of caterpillars allows then hand-picking or vacuuming caterpillars can be a good method of control. Removed caterpillars can either be smashed or dropped in a bucket of soapy water. Other options may include pesticides with active ingredients such as insecticidal soap, horticultural oils, pyrethrum, spinosad, or Bacillus thuringiensis var. kurstaki, also known as Bt. Bacillus thuringiensis var. kurstaki specifically targets caterpillars but does not distinguish between “good” and “bad” caterpillars, so be careful where you apply it and also be aware of drift that may occur. When using Bt or spinosad, good coverage of the plant foliage is essential since caterpillars need to consume a lethal dose. There are also numerous synthetic insecticides formulated to treat for caterpillars. When using any pesticide product, be sure to read and follow all label instructions.
