

Joyce Mihalik, President & CEO

Growing up in a small community near Youngstown, Ohio, Joyce was raised by loving parents in a community that insisted on enduring and thriving during the Great Steel Valley Recession. Joyce's mother established her strong work ethic through the example of a 35 year career. Her father inspired her to help others, when upon retirement from public service he began a second career in elder care, providing joy and companionship to the affirmed and often forgotten who live in skilled care facilities. Joyce holds degrees from The Ohio State University and the University of Akron and is a 25-year career veteran in the practice areas of Energy, Sustainability and Operations Management. She is an accredited professional, certified as LEED AP by the United States Green Building Council and has studied negotiations at Harvard Law School. She serves on several Advisory Boards including National Real Estate Investor Online, and does frequent public speaking.

While raising her family, Joyce served as a Deacon at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Akron, Ohio, and has been active as an organizer and volunteer in her son's community sports leagues. Joyce is a member of the 2014 Momentum Executive Leadership Class at the YWCA, in Cleveland, Ohio. She currently attends Grace Church in Bath, Ohio, where through their ministry, she has been inspired to lead a movement, called HlpSum1.Net.

Joyce believes that her career has been built upon a weight-bearing structure consisting of all the challenges and lessons learned along the way. She also believes that everyone must journey along his or her own path. It is her hope that others will benefit from the publications of HlpSum1, Inc. and as a result, will not fall too deep, or, will at least recover quickly from the common traps in business, and in life that arise.
