 Gospel: Luke 21: 25-28, 34-36 (Yr C) “Be Vigilant, Pray & Listen”

*****

As we begin to move into the season of Advent, we transition from the darkness that will precede the end of the world to the darkness that hovered over the world at its beginning. Surprisingly, this darkness holds within it the promise of dawn as we anxiously await the rising sun. This is a season of expectation and of hope. It is a time for us to listen again to God's promise of deliverance and reconciliation. It is a time for us to be reassured of His relentless love for each and all of us, and for our planet. Now is the time for us to listen to voices of Advent.

Advent is pregnant with the promise of new beginnings. It is a time for us to be vigilant and to pay attention to the signs of the times. Pope Francis is another Advent voice and he has given two gifts to assist us: Fratelli Tutti and Laudato Si’. We are indeed all brothers and sisters having the ability to work together in building and sustaining our common home. We have an opportunity here to grow, to develop from scratch a spirituality of waiting - a time of hope and promise - as we remain vigilant and pray constantly.

Being vigilant, praying constantly and simply listening is not nearly enough. The message of Advent is a call to action and responsibility - a call to grow in sensitivity and awareness and to take an active role in alleviating the pain and suffering in the world around us. Advent is the season of expectation but it is also very much a season of the present moment, because God is already in our midst, calls to us and continues to stay with us, even as we cry out: “Maranatha, Come Lord Jesus, Come!”
