

Websites to Help with GED Test Preparation

Good Websites for GED prep

www.4tests.com GED - Take and score only 1 test at a time. Uncheck boxes for all but that one test. You can score at any time. (Ex. You could do just 1-4 and score.) Be sure to review the explanation for each answer.

www.gedtestingservice.com

1. Click Educators.
2. Click tab For Educators
3. From dropdown choose Free Practice Test.
4. On the right, find the test you are interested in and View Online.

The following websites are McGraw Hill sites. Go in as a student, pick a chapter, and then go down links to the left. Do chapter tests and GED practice tests. As an instructor there are great power point presentations

www.GedSocialStudies.com

www.Gedmath.com

www.gedreading.com

www.gedscience.com

www.gedwriting.com

Google contemporary's_gedlanguage

Two fun sites are www.chompchomp.com and Freerice.com.

Chompchomp.com – This has good Language skill practice. Enter, Exercises choose COMMA SPLICES. Although the program will suggest printing, this is not necessary. Use earphones.

Freerice.com – You may choose math or vocabulary items.

Excellent Reading Practice Newsforyouonline.com high-interest reading, crossword puzzles, questions etc. Weekly Reader for adults. This site will read aloud and gives definitions for some words. You will be asked for the pin, 15ED68, when you want to read the rest of a story. Then you will be signed in for the whole site.

New York Times Free for students! Google --- learning blogs nytimes
Choose US or Science etc. This is high interest reading. Make comments and read what others say.

Cagle.com Good site with political cartoons

*Every minute of work at home on WIN and Career Ready 101 counts toward your class hours, as long as you are working during times that aren't also class time for you – Friday, Saturday, Sunday; afternoon or evening if you are in a morning class; morning if you are in an afternoon or evening class; afternoon if you are in a morning or evening class. Go to the Adult Education website, Laurens County Adult Education.org, scroll down and click the button WIN Courseware. Your intake specialist will set up an account for you.

Career Ready 101 is another good website that can be accessed from our Adult Ed. Site. Your intake specialist will set up an account for you.

Google Khan Academy. This is a great site for Math lessons. Look up the video you need. (ex. percents) Use headphones.

National Geographic Daily News – Beautiful site with excellent Science and Social Studies reading and background information.