Where We're Most Vulnerable

Search me, O God, and know my heart;
Try me, and know my anxieties;
And see if there is any wicked way in me,
And lead me in the way everlasting.
(Psalm 139:23,24)

ONE OF LIFE'S GREATEST DECISIONS IS WHETHER TO PAY MORE ATTENTION TO OUR OWN FAULTS OR TO THOSE OF OTHERS. It's an undeniable fact that much of our life in this world will be spent dealing with problems. And the quality of our lives is greatly determined by this basic question: which will be our main focus from day to day, correcting our own faults or correcting those of others? Much that is important in life depends on our decision.

It doesn't take very sharp eyesight to see that sinfulness is harmful. We are surrounded by human wreckage. The dramatic evidence of what sin can do is everywhere we look. And living in such a world, it's quite obvious that we're vulnerable. There is no way to live in the here and now without the likelihood of being hurt. So it's understandable that we become preoccupied with problem-solving and error-correction. Although we can't eliminate sin, we'd like to minimize it as much as possible. We'd like to protect ourselves to whatever extent we can.

But where is it that we're the most vulnerable? With our answer to this question we show ourselves to be either wise or foolish. Warning His disciples that they would be persecuted, Jesus said, "Do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. But rather fear Him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell" (Matthew 10:28). It's virtually certain that others will do us wrong from time to time. But whatever damage we may suffer at their hands, that damage does not go nearly as deep nor last nearly as long as the damage we do to ourselves by our own sins.

Given the danger of the flaws in our own character, it is amazing how casually we can ignore these while trying to help other people. We gag at the gnat of our neighbor's sin while swallowing the camel of our own (Matthew 23:24). And the mote that we remove from our friend's eye is as nothing compared to the beam that's in our own (Matthew 7:3). We make ourselves nearly ridiculous bothering about "threats" that are nowhere near our most serious dangers. It would be comical if it were not so serious.

"Flee from your own faults. The flaws in others will not hurt you" (Guigo I).

Today's Bible Quiz Answer

d) because Saul was the Lord's anointed

1 Sam 24:1-11

24:1 After Saul returned from pursuing the Philistines, he was told, "David is in the Desert of En Gedi." 2 So Saul took three thousand chosen men from all Israel and set out to look for David and his men near the Crags of the Wild Goats.

3 He came to the sheep pens along the way; a cave was there, and Saul went in to relieve himself. David and his men were far back in the cave. 4 The men said, "This is the day the LORD spoke of when he said to you, 'I will give your enemy into your hands for you to deal with as you wish.'" Then David crept up unnoticed and cut off a corner of Saul's robe.

5 Afterward, David was conscience-stricken for having cut off a corner of his robe. 6 He said to his men, "The LORD forbid that I should do such a thing to my master, the LORD's anointed, or lift my hand against him; for he is the anointed of the LORD." 7 With these words David rebuked his men and did not allow them to attack Saul. And Saul left the cave and went his way.

8 Then David went out of the cave and called out to Saul, "My lord the king!" When Saul looked behind him, David bowed down and prostrated himself with his face to the ground. 9 He said to Saul, "Why do you listen when men say, 'David is bent on harming you'?" 10 This day you have seen with your own eyes how the LORD delivered you into my hands in the cave. Some urged me to kill you, but I spared you; I said, 'I will not lift my hand against my master, because he is the LORD's anointed. NIV
