In the intricate tapestry of European towns, the INDIMAE project stands as a beacon of innovation and collaboration. Financed by the Europe for Citizens Program of the EC under strand 2.2, “European Networks of Towns,” INDIMAE is a forward-looking initiative aimed at enhancing diversity management and safeguarding minority rights in European towns. Coordinated by the Municipality of Simitli, Bulgaria, supported by 11 partners from 10 European countries, the INDIMAE Network is involving citizens from diverse backgrounds, underrepresented minorities and migrant communities, and fostering dialogue among public bodies, twinning committees, and civil society organizations.
