

Using the Internet to Share Books with Your Child

How To Read With Your Child

A young teenager talks to parents about how to read with their child. This short video is an excellent introduction to how to share a book with your child.

Storyline Online

The Screen Actors Guild Foundation records well-known actors reading children's books and makes graphically dynamic videos so that children around the world can be read to with just the click of a Storyline Online video book image. This is an excellent website with outstanding readers and very sophisticated photography.

YouTube

If you go to the YouTube website you can simply type in a children's book title and see if there is an online reading of the book. The address below will take you to an area on YouTube with a list of online books. You will need to preview the books because not all of them are well done and of interest.

Just Books Read Aloud

This site has more than 600 hundred children's books read aloud. The site has no ads and a good selection of books. However, preview the book before sharing with your child... this not a professional website and the photography and audio are not always the best.
