SAFE-T offers Community Outreach Programs

The SAFE-T staff has been busy with its Community Outreach Programs, and hopes to schedule even more events in the approaching summer months of 2018.

Callie Howard of SAFE-T Mount Pleasant recently completed an eight week SAFE-T Prevention Education Program with fifth grade students at P.E. Wallace Elementary in Mount Pleasant, as well as two SAFE-T Prevention Education Assemblies at Paul Pewitt Elementary in Mount Pleasant.

Howard focused on informing students on techniques to combat bullying without resorting to physical violence during her eight weeks at P.E. Wallace.

"The fifth grade group responded really well to the eight-week session," said Howard. "The students learned how to confront a bully without being violent, and how to help other people who are being bullied." Howard's assemblies focused on how to spot an unhealthy relationship and what a healthy relationship consists of. "The students learned what signs they need to look for if they think they might be in an unhealthy relationship," she said. "I got a lot of feedback from both assemblies. The kids asked a lot of questions and they seemed to find it interesting. They learned what a healthy relationship looks like. It really opened their eyes to what emotional abuse is."
