Ceremonial Gathering: Sweat Lodge & Medicine Wheel

at Homestead Retreat - Clyde, NC * June 9th - 11th, 2017

What is a Sweat Lodge Ceremony?

The Sweat Lodge ceremony is one of the most common ceremonies practiced by First Nations people throughout North America. Lodges may be conducted as a preliminary to other activities, such as a fast or vision quest. This Ceremony is often offered as a ritual for healing, spiritual cleansing, and reaching higher consciousness. Entering the Sweat Lodge is seen as returning to the womb of Mother Earth and the exit to a symbolic rebirth. While inside the lodge one sits in total darkness. The lodge is designed to provide a safe, sacred place where participants can concentrate on personal healing, the healing of the earth, and the fulfillment of prayers offered up. In the Lodge, through our songs and prayers, compassionate Spirits are invited in to aid us in our healing. Pouring water onto the rocks, known as 'the grandfathers', creates steam. We then have all four elements present in the lodge: earth below, air all around, fire in the grandfathers and water in the steam.

What is a Medicine Wheel Ceremony?

The Medicine Wheel, sometimes known as the Sacred Hoop, has been used by generations of various Native American tribes for health and healing. During the summer of 2016, retreat guests built and conducted our first sacred Medicine Wheel ceremony at Homestead.

For centuries, the Medicine Wheel has been honored as a transcendent, ceremonial space - a place to experience our connection to the Great Mysteries of life and all that is. The Wheel embodies the Four Directions, as well as Father Sky, Mother Earth, and Spirit Tree. The Sacred Wheel or circle, throughout time, in all cultures, has always represented a physical embodiment of spiritual energy. It represents the elements of life, the cycles of the cosmos, the phases of our own life's journey, and the lessons we gain as souls as we travel around the wheel. We will connect to the spirit of this beautiful land as together we share in creating harmony and healing on the planet.
