It feels like just yesterday.....

.....that we shared the High Holy Days together. It is shocking to me to be contemplating the summer already. As with any year, each of us can look back - and should look back -- to recount our personal highlights: what was important to us; what moved us; what did we learn; what opportunities did we take to be of help to others. I hope that as you look back over the year you will find many ways in which you were touched by the life of the congregation.

This coming month we go through the rituals we share annually of winding the year down. On June 3 we will thank the men and women who served as teachers in the Sharing Shabbat School. They give generously of their time and skill to lovingly help raise a generation of knowledgeable and caring Jews. On June 10 we will thank the men and women who have assumed leadership responsibilities for the congregation. We will say farewell to the officers and board members who are stepping down. They have selflessly shared their commitment and devotion. They have opened their hearts lavishly to Shir Chadash and we are the better for it. And we will welcome the women and men who are picking up the reins of leadership for the future. They have stepped forward with enthusiasm. Theirs will be the challenging task of guiding us into our future. You can be sure that complicated and consequential issues will be laid before them. How fortunate we are that they have the wisdom and skill to guide us as we confront them.

All of which is to say that June is a full month for us. Please come be part of these services as we, collectively join together to express our thanks to those among us who have given us gifts of their skill and devotion

B'Shalom

What's Love Got To Do With It?

Music Sabbath June 10th: "Jewish Songs of Love"

Very often Judaism is described as a "religion of law" while other faiths are seen as "religions of love". And, although it is quite true that Judaism's underpinning is the observance of the Mitzvot, or commandments, there is, as the saying goes, "love all around" if one looks carefully. The place of love in Jewish text, liturgy, theology and mysticism is vast and ever present.

First and foremost, there is the Shema, or what many consider to be the essence of Jewish faith, acknowledging that our God is One. However, the Shema, which comes directly from the Torah, is not just about the description of our deity, but about our RELATIONSHIP to God. The very next verse that follows in the Torah and in the prayer book is: "And you shall LOVE the Lord your God, with all your heart, with all your soul and with all your might." Much has been written about this injunction to "love God" and we will discuss it further at our Music Sabbath 7:30pm June 10th. Our prayers are full of examples of the love relationship the Jewish people have with our God. The Hebrew word for 'love', Ahava, is scattered throughout our liturgy. This love relationship is demonstrated through the covenantal relationship we have with God. We show our love to God by observing the Mitzvot and being God's partners in creation. God shows love for us by giving us the privilege and opportunity to observe the Mitzvot.

We will also be highlighting the evocative and sensual love poetry in the Biblical Song of Songs. Again, while the Song of Songs appears on the surface to be various exchanges between pairs of lovers with well known quotes such as, "I am my beloved's and my beloved is mine", the Rabbis tell us that it is a metaphor for the powerful love relationship between God and the people Israel. Seen through this specific lens, the Song of Songs takes on a special theological tone. Many of these beautiful texts have been set to music and often are played and/or sung at Jewish weddings.

And, finally, that brings us to the Jewish wedding itself, a masterpiece of liturgy that integrates the holy and romantic as one. In Judaism we are commanded to rejoice with the bride and groom. The bride and groom are opportunities for us to see the world anew and revisit its promise. The wedding is an opportunity to witness God's creation once again and to remind ourselves that we are, indeed, God's partners. Although the ceremony focuses on the commitments the couple make to one another, God's presence is under the chuppah giving blessing and sustenance not only to the couple, but to all who rejoice with them. Please join us on Friday, June 10th as our choir and I share a very special Sabbath of love with all of you.

L'Shalom,
Cantor Gail Hirschenfang

A Message from President Victor Feit

I'll Be There for You

I would like to thank the membership of Congregation Shir Chadash for allowing me the opportunity to be your president for the past four years. It has been, to say the least, a unique experience. I have done enough mitzvahs to last me a life time! I would especially like to thank the core membership, without naming names, for helping to cover my weaknesses and share in my decision making with wise and sound advice. This has been a great learning experience in management, better, I believe, than an MBA program. I have learned to recognize how small, insignificant problems can quickly become major headaches, if not taken care of in the proper time frame. I have learned to say "...let me think about it..." rather than make quick decisions. I have learned to take consult from the people around me, rather than dictate. Most importantly, I have learned that most problems have solutions if you step back and re-evaluate the situation. When a solution is finally reached, I have come to realize that not everyone will accept it. As Abe Lincoln once said, "you can please some of the people all of the time, all of the people some of the time, but you can't please all the people all of the time." Therefore, all decisions may leave some of the people dissatisfied, and that cannot be helped.

There is never a dull moment when you deal with a congregation of 80 families. There are always small fires to put out. There are always feelings of the congregants to be considered with every discussion and decision. When decisions are made, there is always a possibility that someone's feelings may get hurt. Communication is important at all times, especially if the discussion or decision is taken personally. Paraphrasing the Dali Lama who says, "our prime purpose is to help others, and if we cannot help them, at least try not to hurt them... communicate, and deal with them." I have found this to be true and wise advice. So, I apologize to anyone I hurt or offended during my tenure. It was not on purpose and all the decisions were made with a great deal of thought and input from others.

This has been an honor and a privilege to have served as President of Shir Chadash over the past 4 years. I would also like to take the time to thank my wife Sue for her patience and typing skills - they have both come in handy. And I want to especially thank the members of Shir Chadash. Good luck to Jane and the new board. I will be there for you.

Shalom,
Vic Feit

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL NOTES AND REMINDERS FOR JUNE

June is the month that we remember the Shir Chadash teachers who have given so much of their time, wisdom, and creativity to our children.

Our Aleph class was taught by Rochelle Bellach assisted by Andrew Scheck. Whenever you walked into the Aleph classroom, you would see those youngsters busy at work creating projects, reading Torah stories, or talking about the Jewish holidays. During the course of this year, these students made many mementos of their studies including Challah covers, seder plates, and Israeli Flags. In the background you could hear Jewish music reinforcing the topic being discussed.

Our Bet class learned about the symbols of Judaism and the meanings of the Jewish holidays under the tutelage of Steve Moskowitz, sometimes assisted by his son, Mason. Steve came up with a variety of activities that enhanced his students' understanding of Jewish history, values, and how they connected to the Jewish holidays and symbols. It was Steve who brought in a special outdoor stove that used a stone to cook the Passover matzah that our students baked.

Ed Ginsberg led our Gimmel class with intriguing discussions about Jewish heroes and values. The Gimmel students worked on a year-long project looking at their heroes and what qualities make a hero. Ed's students enjoyed the discussions in his class and felt free to express themselves.

Andrew Scheck not only assisted in the Aleph class, but served as substitute teacher when we needed someone last minute. It was amazing to watch him come up with a topic and an effective lesson plan, and then successfully implement this plan.

Now there was also another class that was held weekly but not during our Sharing Shabbat. That class is our B'not Mitzvah class led by Cantor Hirschenfang. Cantor Hirschenfang has the ability and patience to teach and motivate nine adult students not only to learn Hebrew and the Hebrew prayers, but also the meanings behind the words. And this was done in only four months. Imagine what the students will be able to do one year from now! In addition, Cantor Hirschenfang is always teaching our congregation new songs and enriching our services with her music.

And finally, last but not least, we need to thank our lead teacher, Rabbi Polish. Rabbi Polish is always teaching us history and Torah, motivating us to think about what we can glean from his lessons and how we can apply these lessons to our lives.

PLEASE HELP US THANK ALL THESE TEACHERS ON JUNE 3rd, 2016, DURING OUR FRIDAY NIGHT SHABBAT SERVICE WHICH STARTS AT 7:30 P.M. AS ALWAYS, AN ONEG WILL FOLLOW, ALLOWING YOU TO PERSONALLY THANK EACH ONE.

B'Shalom, Sue Marcoe

“The Spinoza Problem: A Novel”
by Irvin D. Yalom

In The Spinoza Problem, Irvin Yalom spins fact and fiction into an unforgettable psycho-philosophical novel. A psychiatrist with a deep interest in philosophical issues, Yalom jointly tells the story of the seventeenth-century thinker Baruch Spinoza, his philosophy and subsequent excommunication from the Jewish community, and his apparent influence on the Nazi ideologue Alfred Rosenberg, whose einsatzgruppe was dispatched during the Second World War to investigate a mysterious “Spinoza Problem.” Seamlessly alternating between Golden Age Amsterdam and Nazi Germany, Yalom investigates the inner lives of these two enigmatic men in a tale of influence and anxiety, the origins of good and evil, and the philosophy of freedom and the tyranny of terror. Amazon

Jay Parini, author of The Last Station and The Passages of H.M.

“Spinoza had no ‘real life’ outside his reading and writing: he lived in his brilliant mind. So how do you write about a philosopher—a writer beloved of Goethe, Schopenhauer, and so many other thinkers—who spent most of his time in thought? And how do you regard Spinoza—a Jew whose work helped to usher in the Enlightenment—if, indeed, you’re a Nazi? Irvin Yalom is just the writer to take on such a problem, and he solves it, with his own novelistic brilliance, in this vibrant book. In my view, Yalom is one of the most eclectic, wide-ranging, and dazzling writers of our time.”

AND/OR

“The First Modern Jew: Spinoza and the History of an Image” by Daniel B. Schwartz

“Pioneering biblical critic, theorist of democracy, and legendary conflator of God and nature, Jewish philosopher Baruch Spinoza (1632-1677) was excommunicated by the Sephardic Jews of Amsterdam in 1656 for his “horrible heresies” and “monstrous deeds.” Yet, over the past three centuries, Spinoza’s rupture with traditional Jewish beliefs and practices has elevated him to a prominent place in genealogies of Jewish modernity. The First Modern Jew provides a riveting look at how Spinoza went from being one of Judaism’s most notorious outcasts to one of its most celebrated, if still highly controversial, cultural icons, and a powerful and protean symbol of the first modern secular Jew.

Ranging from Amsterdam to Palestine and back again to Europe, the book chronicles Spinoza’s posthumous odyssey from marginalized heretic to hero, the exemplar of a whole host of Jewish identities, including cosmopolitan, nationalist, reformist, and rejectionist. Daniel Schwartz shows that in fashioning Spinoza into “the first modern Jew,” generations of Jewish intellectuals—German liberals, East European maskilim, secular Zionists, and Yiddishists—have projected their own dilemmas of identity onto him, reshaping the Amsterdam thinker in their own image. The many afterlives of Spinoza are a kind of looking glass into the struggles of Jewish writers over where to draw the boundaries of Jewishness and whether a secular Jewish identity is indeed possible. Cumulatively, these afterlives offer a kaleidoscopic view of modern Jewish culture and a vivid history of an obsession with Spinoza that continues to this day.” Amazon

Member's Corner

To My Shir Chadash Family,

For my mitzvah project I have decided to collect donations for Mid Hudson Animal Aid and also volunteer some of my time.

MHAA is a no kill cat sanctuary dedicated to providing a safe haven for abandoned and abused kittens/cats in the Hudson Valley and beyond. They are given care in a free range environment while awaiting their forever homes.

As to collecting donations, they always need canned wet food, cat and kitten any kind, though friskies, all varieties, are in high demand, as well as treats and any special food with gravy. Non-clumping litter is also always needed. Donations of towels and pillowcases are also appreciated.

If you'd like to make any donations please email my mom (Kara) at KJL4371@gmail.com to schedule a time to meet. Thank you so much for your support!

Dear Shir Chadash Congregation,

Thank you very much for the beautifully decorated Kiddush cup and plate. I will treasure them always. And thank you for the unbelievable gift certificate to travel to Israel. Your support and kindness from teaching me Torah and Jewish customs to helping me do my Mitzvah project means so much to me.

Much appreciation and love,
Hannah
