Sunday Meditation

When Jesus cried out from the cross, "It is finished," that meant He had accomplished what He was born to accomplish. He had to live a sinless life of perfect obedience, and He had to offer Himself as a spotless sacrifice for the sins of mankind. That's what the older theologians meant when they wrote of the "doing and dying" of Jesus. The doing—He lived a life of perfect righteousness, perfect obedience to the Law, and His righteousness was credited to us who believe. Dying—His sinless death was also credited to us for the forgiveness of our sins. Because we trust in Him for salvation we're beneficiaries of a life we didn't live and a death we didn't die. Upon His life and death, His doing and dying, we stake our whole eternity. That, in a nutshell, is the Gospel story, one I never get tired of telling. All for Jesus, Richard
