Virginia Animal Control Association Wins Award

The National Animal Control Association (NACA) has chosen the Virginia Animal Control Association (VACA) as this year's winner of the Outstanding State Association award. VACA competed with other state associations throughout the nation.

Some of the criteria for this award included,

- Improving the quality of Animal Control within their state
- Active in sponsoring seminars/training for members
- Active in NACA sponsored training

The award was accepted by a VACA board member in attendance at the NACA training summit held in Reno, Nevada May 16-17, 2011.
