

HORNSEA : The wooden groynes are in need of repair, but are considerably cheaper than more permanent stone groynes or armouring. Some sections have been improved and renovated, a cheaper option than replacing with stones and a safer way to protect a coast where access and leisure activities are an important asset to the local economy.

