*Who could guess at early dawn
That there is now a war going on?
You see the mountains far away
It looks just like an ordinary day.*

*The sun is starting to open its eyes,
The birds are flying, high in the sky.
The wind is whispering across the plains,
In the distance, are signs of rain.*

*The guns are quiet, they flash no more,
You think of home on a distant shore.
The world seems peaceful, in a sad sort of way
Yes! It looks just like an ordinary day.*

*The crickets are chirping in the deep grass
You sit and let the memories pass.
Off to your left, water buffalo feed
While the impoverished farmer, is planting seed.*

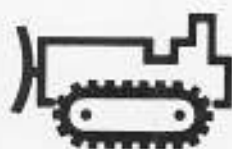

*The sun is climbing, it's getting light,
The time has come to resume the fight.
"Just one last look", to yourself you say,
For it looks just like an ordinary day.*

*Four noble men, an ordinary day,
Their gallant lives taken away,
Their country called, they were not late,
Unafraid to meet their fate.*

*Their memories in our hearts will last
We'll carry on in their behalf
Wherever there's a job to be done,
Look to the men of One Twenty One.*

Commanding Officer

This cruisebook is another chapter in the exploits and deeds of the United States Navy's Seabees. Along with those published by other battalions, this publication will provide ample evidence to all, that the Seabees are filling a major role in the military conflict in Vietnam.

It has been a distinct honor to command the 121st Seabees during the period covered by this publication. The magnificent record compiled is truly in keeping with General Greene's challenge on 4 February 1967 when he said: "You of the 121st Naval Mobile Construction Battalion have a tremendous heritage. I saw that heritage in the making. Your record could, in every respect, equal or surpass that of the former 121st Seabees. Should combat come, should you be called for a tough job, you and I know that the response will be — "Can Do!"

LCDR WILLIAM N. AHRENS, CEC, USN
Pulaski, Pennsylvania
January 1967 — December 1967

LCDR William N. Ahrens, was the first Executive Officer of the recommissioned Mobile Construction Battalion 121.

He attended Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. and graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Mechanical Engineering. He was then commissioned an Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve through the Contract NROTC Program.

In 1965 he was awarded a Master of Science Degree in Mechanical Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y. under the Navy Post Graduate Program.

Serving as Operations Officer of MCB-1, he traveled from Davisville to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba and to Da Nang, Republic of Vietnam. He reported to MCB-121 in early January of 1967.

LCDR THOMAS W. HARWELL, CEC, USN

Executive Officer

The completion of the first deployment to Vietnam of U. S. Naval Construction Battalion One Hundred Twenty-One signifies a major milestone in our illustrious history. During this deployment, the leadership, skill, devotion to duty, and endurance of each and every man were tested to the utmost in meeting our construction commitments to the United States military effort in Southeast Asia. Each person in the battalion contributed measurably to a successful deployment. It has been a pleasure to work with all the personnel and I take great pride in their accomplishments. The battalion has reaffirmed its reputation for quick response to any and all situations. I sincerely wish all members of the battalion a "FAIR WIND AND A FOLLOWING SEA" in all their future endeavors.

RE-

COMMISSIONING

"The Moment of Truth": Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. hands the battalion colors to Commander Bobby E. Stultz, MCB-121 Commanding Officer, recommissioning the 121st Seabee Battalion.

General Wallace M. Greene Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, assists Commander Bobby E. Stultz, Commanding Officer of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 121 in cutting the beautifully decorated cake at the officers' reception. Behind them are Rear Admiral Henry A. Renken, Captain Greer A. Besbee and Captain Robert C. Ingram.

Mobile Construction Battalion 121 was recommissioned Feb. 4, 1967, when General Wallace M. Greene Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, handed the battalion's colors to Commander Bobby E. Stultz, Commanding Officer. Recommissioning ceremonies were held at the Seabee Center in Gulfport, Miss.

MCB-121 received its numerical designation from Naval Construction Battalion 121 of World War II fame. This unit had the distinction of helping to build the airstrips on Tinian from which, in 1945, B-29 bombers took off to drop atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Seabees worked closely with the Marines in 1942, just as they do today. NCB-121 was redesignated the 3rd Battalion, 20th Marines, Fourth Marine Division at Camp LeJeune, N.C.

Later, at Camp Pendleton, Calif. while waiting for the Fourth Division to be formed, the 'Bees constructed a 500-tent camp and five 500-man galleys, extended the camp's water supply system, and built shower and head facilities for 2500 men.

The battalion sailed off into the South Pacific and a date with the Japanese in the Marshall Islands early in 1944. Hopping from island to island, the Seabees removed artillery shells and blasted coconut trees to clear space for Marine Corps artillery emplacements. At the height of these operations the Seabees acted as ammunition and supply carriers.

Saipan and its neighbor Tinian, were the next objectives and the men of the 121st went ashore with the Marines again. The Seabees repaired a captured enemy airfield on Saipan while the fighting was still raging. The men worked with "oxless" ox-carts and a captured Japanese roller to repair heavy bomb damage to three airfields in two days. The assault on Tinian went much easier. Here the scrapping 'Bees installed landing ramps on the beaches, helped build several 500-foot wide by 8500-foot long runways for B-29 bombers, built control towers, taxiways, hard-stands, aviation fuel pipelines and a tank farm. The battalion received the Presidential Unit Citation for its part in the Saipan and Tinian assaults.

MARINE COMMANDANT SPEAKS

In his recommissioning speech Gen. Greene said, "You of the reactivated 121st Mobile Construction Battalion have a tremendous heritage in the making. Your record could, in every respect, equal or surpass that of the former 121st Seabees. Should combat come; should you be called for a tough job, you and I know what the response will be Can Do!"

Gen. Greene knew what the old 121st Seabees could do. He was there as a member of the Fourth Marine Division in the Marshall Islands and again in the Saipan and Tinian invasions. As a lieutenant colonel he helped plan the invasions.

MCB-121 was the fourth battalion to be recommissioned at Gulfport, and the first reactivated in 1967.

Rear Admiral Henry A. Renken, Commander Services Forces, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, unfurled the Presidential Unit Citation awarded the battalion's predecessors during World War II.

Four veterans of the war in the South Pacific discuss the past. Left to right are: Hollis H. Hatten, Wiggins, Miss., former enlisted member of NCB-121 in World War II; Commander Thomas H. Flinn (Ret.), former Executive Officer; Gen. Greene; James W. Seals, Ocean Springs, Miss., another former enlisted member; and Commander Bobby E. Stultz, Commanding Officer of the new MCB-121.

MCB-121 COMMISSIONED

At right, General Wallace M. Greene Jr. receiving a 19-gun salute at the recommissioning of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 121 at Gulfport, Miss. On the General's left is Captain Robert C. Engram, Commander 20th Naval Construction Regiment and Commanding Officer of CBC Gulfport.

In addition to Gen. Greene's recommissioning speech, remarks were made by Rear Admiral Walter M. Enger, Deputy Commander, Naval Facilities Engineering Command, Washington. He spoke of MCB-121's proud heritage and colorful tradition.

CDR Stultz reminded his officers and men that they fulfilled a vital task in the security of their country; they would be flying the colors that once flew above a stalwart band of Americans.

Other military dignitaries on hand to witness the ceremonies at the Gulfport, Miss. Seabee Center were: Rear Admiral Henry M. Wallin, Director Atlantic Division, Naval Facilities Engineering Command, Norfolk; Captain Greer A. Busbee, Commander Construction Battalions, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Davisville; Captain Robert C. Engram, Commander 20th Naval Construction Regiment and Commanding Officer, CBC Gulfport, Miss; Captain Woodrow M. Brown, Director Gulf Division, NAVFAC, New Orleans; Captain John C. Dillon, Director, Southeast Division, NAVFAC, Charleston, S.C.; Colonel R. I. Wood, Director Sixth Marine Corps District, Atlanta; Captain Blake W. Van Leer, Assistant Commander, Military Readiness, NAVFAC, Washington; and Commander Thomas H. Flinn (Ret.), former Executive Officer of the battalion during World War II.

Two former enlisted members of the famed 121st NCB were also present. James W. Seals of Ocean Springs, Miss. and Hollis H. Hatten, Wiggins, Miss. witnessed the ceremony.

MOUNT OUT

Exercise on Ship Island

Seabees of the 121st stormed the beach at Ship Island June 15th, 1967 in a Combat Embarkation (Mount-out) Exercise.

It consisted of loading 180 men, cargo and equipment aboard two Navy Landing Craft Utility boats and making an amphibious assault on the island.

A tactical bivouac was set up and a perimeter defended from aggressors from MCB-121 and 128.

After securing the problem, all equipment was reloaded onto the boats and returned to the mainland.

USS BILOXI MAST, BILOXI, MISS.

The 121st Seabees erected parts of the former Navy cruiser USS BILOXI (CL-80) as a permanent memorial for the city of Biloxi, Miss. The mast was dedicated on Memorial Day 1967.

Altogether, 20 Seabees were involved in the project. Biloxi Commissioner J. A. Creel arranged with local merchants to feed the hungry 'Bees box lunches of lobster and crab.

The USS Biloxi was in many major operations during World War II and perhaps our predecessors, NCB-121, came in contact with her during the Marshall Island campaign in the South Pacific.

COMMUNITY PROJECTS

LONG BEACH TEEN CENTER

Pouring concrete for the base of the mast.

Our Battalion joined forces with the Long Beach, Miss. Jaycees in constructing a new Teen Center for area teenagers. It is located across from the Long Beach High School.

The 121st started work on the project in mid-March, 1967. Bravo Company electricians did the wiring, while Charlie and Delta Seabees took care of the external and interior work respectively. The building was turned over to the teenagers shortly before our departure to Vietnam.

Petty Officer Second Class Raymond J. Williams sets a brick in place before adding the necessary mortar on the face of the Long Beach Teen Center Building.

Delta Company's Harry Wilkes and Dennis Plautz cut strips for wall paneling, while Victor Melville nails one in place.

Take seventeen young boys between the ages of eight and eleven, add the spirit of competition and a uniform, mix well and what do you have? The answer of course is a Little League Baseball Team.

Members of the Orange Grove MCB Little League Team showed from the beginning that they were a team to be reckoned with. At the start of the season it looked as though the boys might not be able to play. They needed a sponsor so the men of Mobile Constabulary Battalion 121 agreed to take on the team. Soon the boys were on the field showing form that was to make them the Harrison County League champs. The boys took on all comers and only dropped two games to the losing position. They finished the season with a perfect record, and walked home with the League Championship.

The 15th of July saw the team hosted by their big brothers of MCB 121 at a cool and swimming party at the CB Center.

The first flight of our main body departed Gulfport on July 28 and arrived at the Phu Bai airport July 31. The trip was made in C-130's which had very few of the comforts of home. In fact, the journey was so tiring that the 'Bees were almost happy to set down in Vietnam and get their feet on solid ground.

Once we moved into the Phu Bai area, the 121st became known for its hard work and excellent craftsmanship. Many jobs fell upon our shoulders as we toiled through our 6½ day workweek. Through the first months the temperature stayed in the 100°+ range. Wind and dust were in everything we owned, slept on, and ate. Then came the rain. Although reputed to be one of the easiest monsoon seasons in quite a while, we were inclined to disagree.

Our jobs were created by the enemy . . .

by the Army . . .

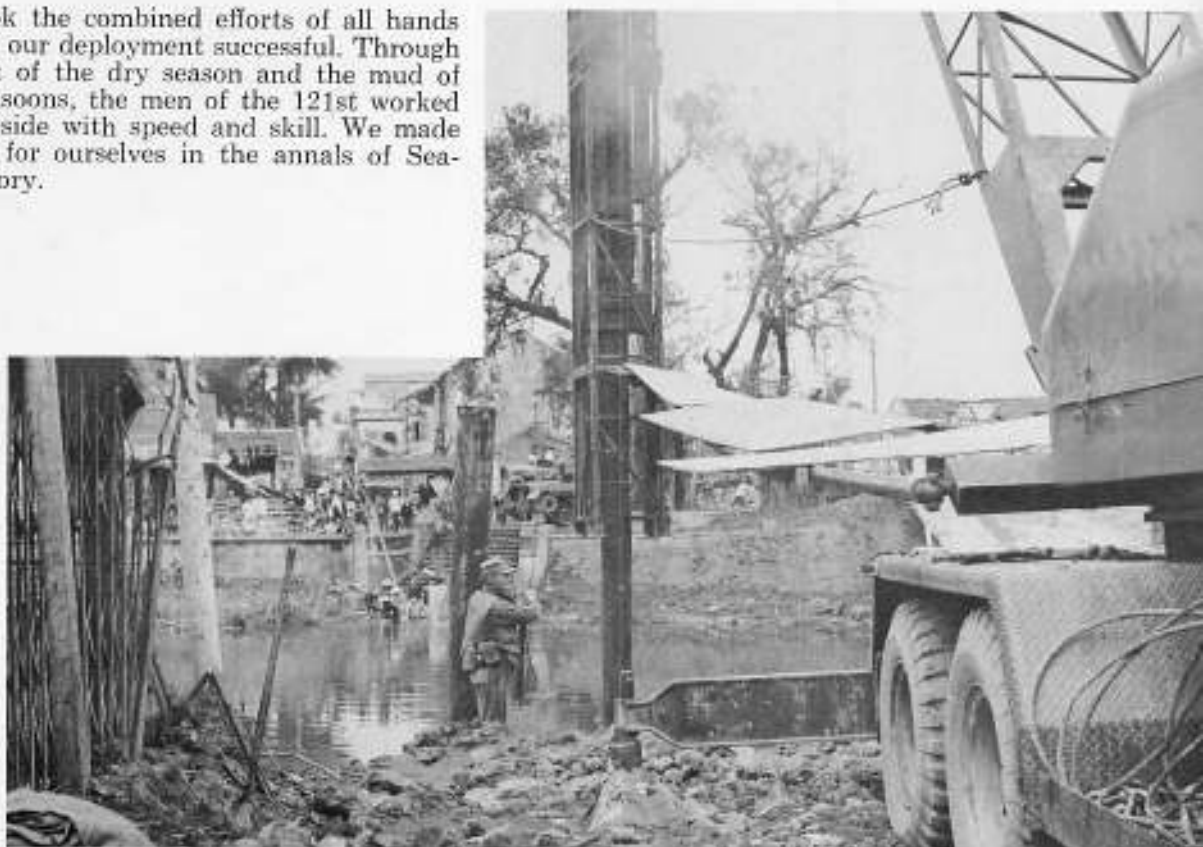

by the Marines . . .

by our need for worship . . .

and by our need for a little comfort . . .

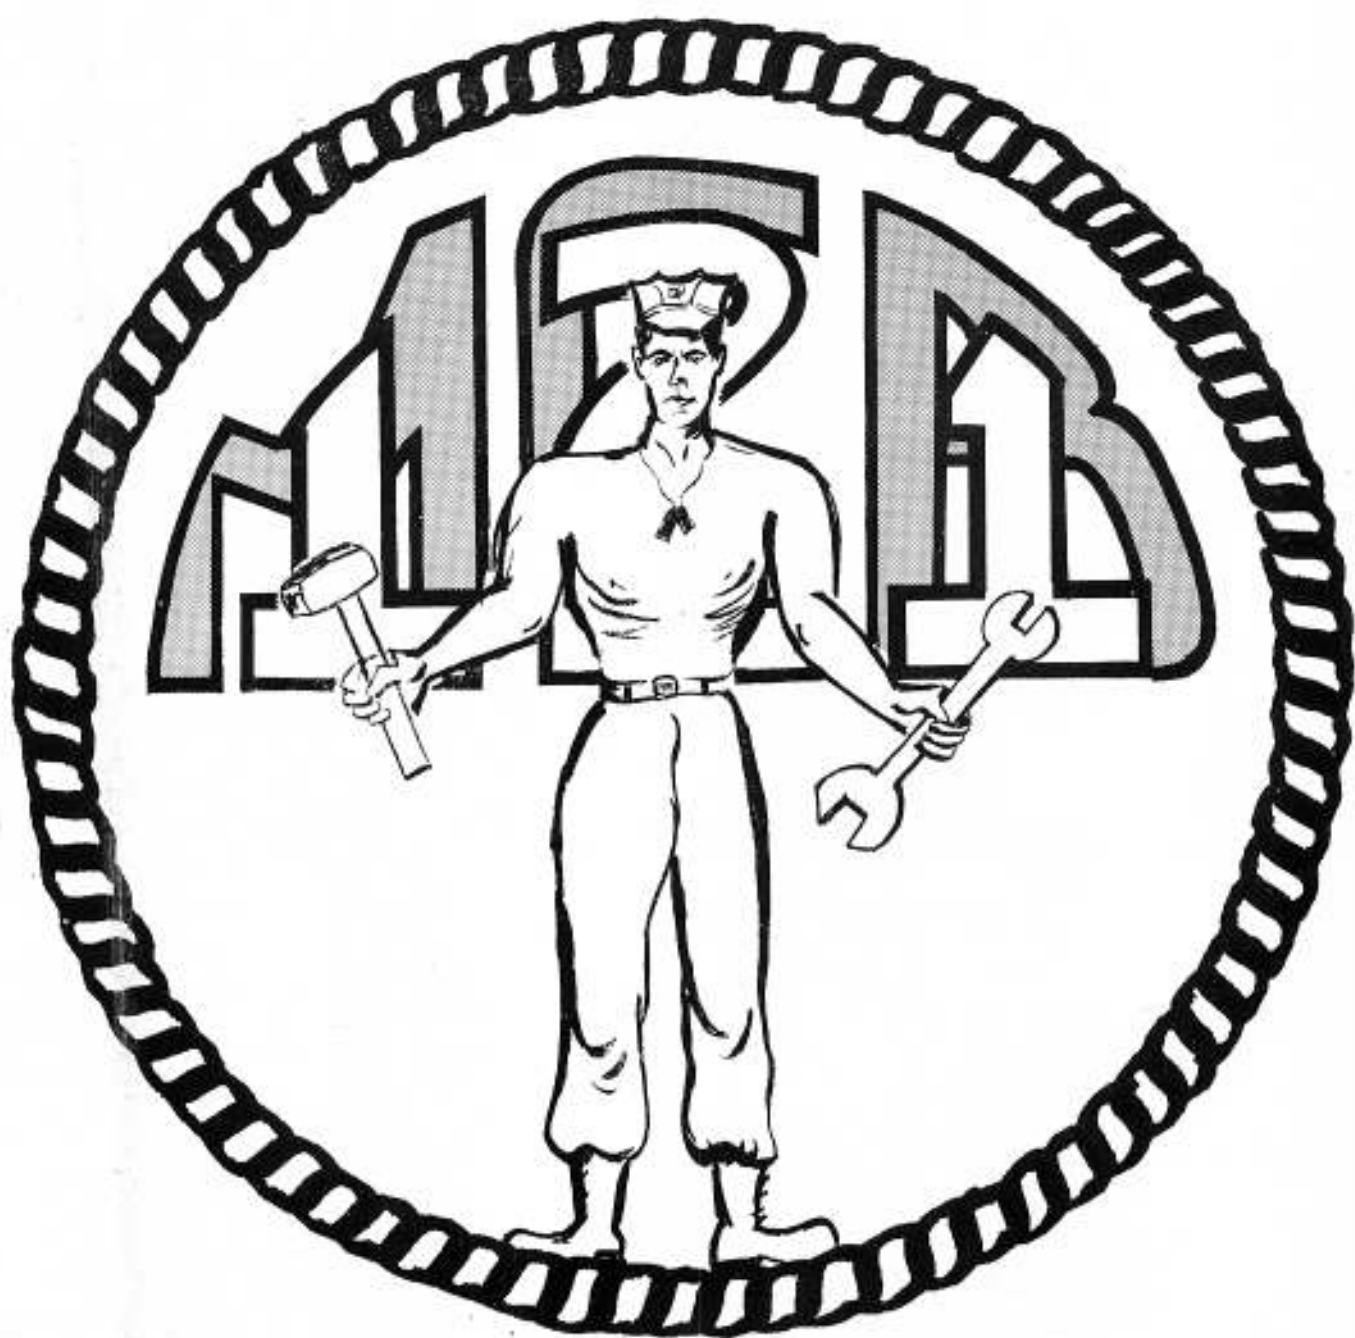

It took the combined efforts of all hands to make our deployment successful. Through the dust of the dry season and the mud of the monsoons, the men of the 121st worked side by side with speed and skill. We made a mark for ourselves in the annals of Seabee history.

ALPHA COMPANY operates and maintains automotive and construction equipment. This company serves as a subcontractor for earth-moving, grading, excavation, paving, hauling, pile-driving, well drilling, heavy lifting, blasting, and may also serve as the prime contractor on earth-moving projects, road maintenance and any other horizontal construction tasks. The company operates the transportation pool, a machine shop and the equipment maintenance shops. The EO's of Alpha Company worked 'round the clock this deployment to complete the earth work for a helicopter landing pad. Their efforts were largely the reason for our early completion of this project.

BRAVO COMPANY

Company Commander
LTJG James Dodson
Pittsburg, Penn.

CEC Homer G. Davis
Galveston, Tex.

BRAVO COMPANY serves as prime contractor on exterior water, sewer, power and communication projects; subcontractor for structural steel fabrication and erection, rigging, sheet metal and millwork, airconditioning and refrigeration and other projects requiring the installation of basic utilities. One of its more important jobs is camp maintainance and operation. CE's manning the generators, UT's manning the water plant and ice plant, BU's in the shop and the selected few on the camp sanitation crew (Honey Bucket Brigade) make camp life a little more bearable for the remainder of the Battalion.

CHARLIE COMPANY

Company Commander
LT Donald Thompson
Oxnard, Calif.

CHARLIE COMPANY is one of the prime contracting companies in the Battalion. During the '67-'68 deployment, men of Charlie Company built hundreds of living huts, several Butler and Pasco buildings, many headwalls and various other vertical construction. Charlie Company is divided into three platoons. The 1st and 3rd platoons are made up of builders and each is capable of every type of construction from concrete or heavy timber construction to cabinet work and painting. Charlie Company's 2nd platoon is comprised of Steelworkers who handle the erection of metal buildings, steel bridge repair and construction of bolted steel tanks. Charlie Company is noted for the many self-sustained detachments to Dong Ha, Tan My, Camp Evans and Hue where they built living spaces, bunkers and chapels for Marines and other U. S. forces in the field.

DELTA COMPANY

Company Commander
LT Reid Brodie
Sanford, Fla.

Assistant Company Commander
LTJG John R. Cottingham
Dillon, S. C.

Leading Chief
BUCS John H. Childs
Greenville, S. C.

DELTA COMPANY is much the same as Charlie. Both are comprised of Steelworkers and Builders, but Delta Company has performed the bulk of the heavy timber bridge work. The men of Delta Company are all-around construction craftsmen, versatile in supervising or performing rough and finished carpentry, masonry, concrete work, bridge building, painting and related construction work. Delta Company is also responsible for the operation of the Battalion's concrete batch plant. Most of the vertical and even some of the horizontal construction projects require the utilization of concrete, so men at the batch plant must work hard and diligently to keep up with the demand.

H COMPANY

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY is responsible for all battalion service needs. The men are divided into platoons for military purposes, but their professional supervision comes from various department heads. The men are mostly from "fleet" ratings, but many of the jobs require such Seabee ratings as EA's, CE's, UT's, and BU's. "H" Company is responsible for supplying the other companies with material for their construction projects, clothing, armament, food, haircuts, laundry, exchange facilities, and entertaining during off hours. They also maintain service records and pay records.

Our Training

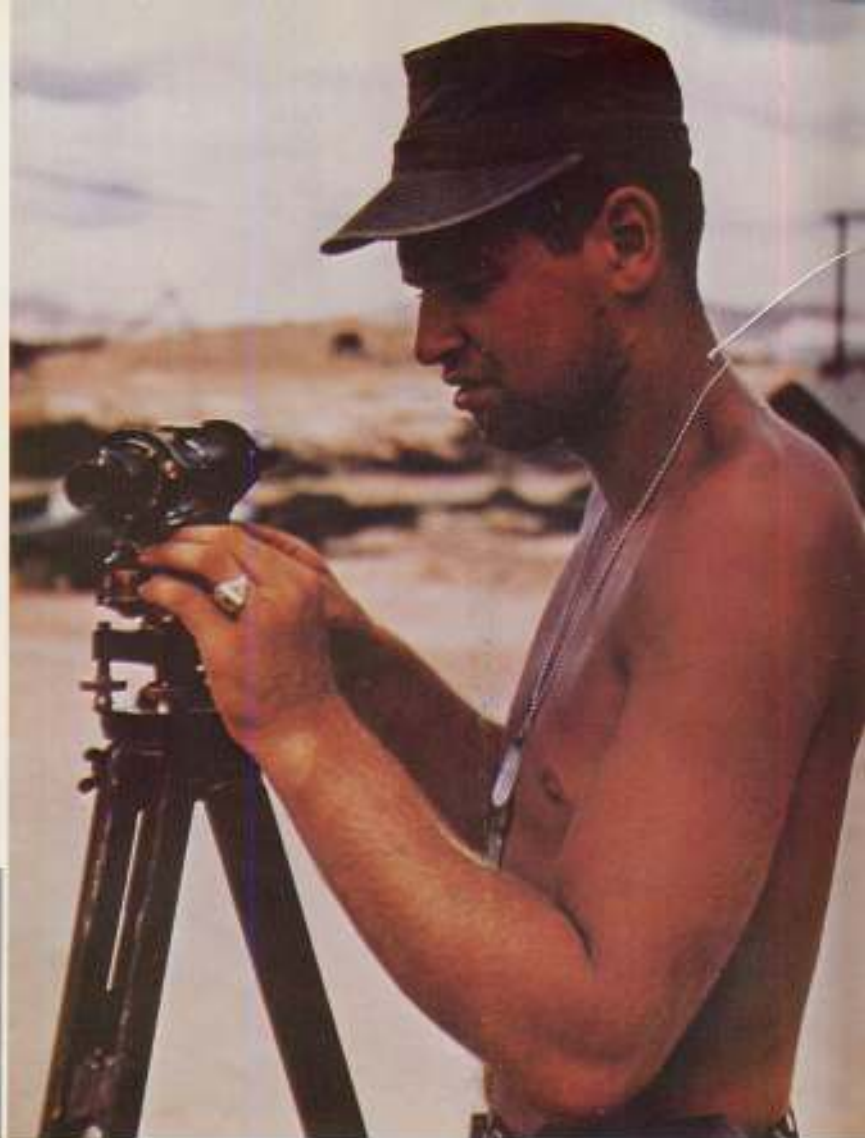

During Homeport

And Our Work on Deployment

Enabled Us to Help

THE PEOPLE

OF VIETNAM

Civic Action Program

There are really two wars raging in Vietnam; the shooting war, and the war to gain Vietnamese trust and friendship. Civic action is often referred to as the "other war".

- The 121st carried on a steady campaign in this "other war". From orphanages in Hue to the coastal village of Phu Loc, the Seabees aided thousands in Vietnam's struggle to freedom and prosperity.

Taking care of little brother.

Ice Cream is a treat anywhere.

"Who is teaching whom, Chief?"

Little girls are the same everywhere

Laughter still persists among the troubled Vietnamese.

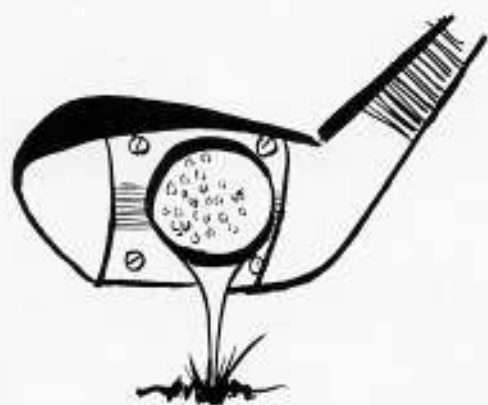

Young and old alike seek help during Medcap visit.

SPECIAL SERVICES

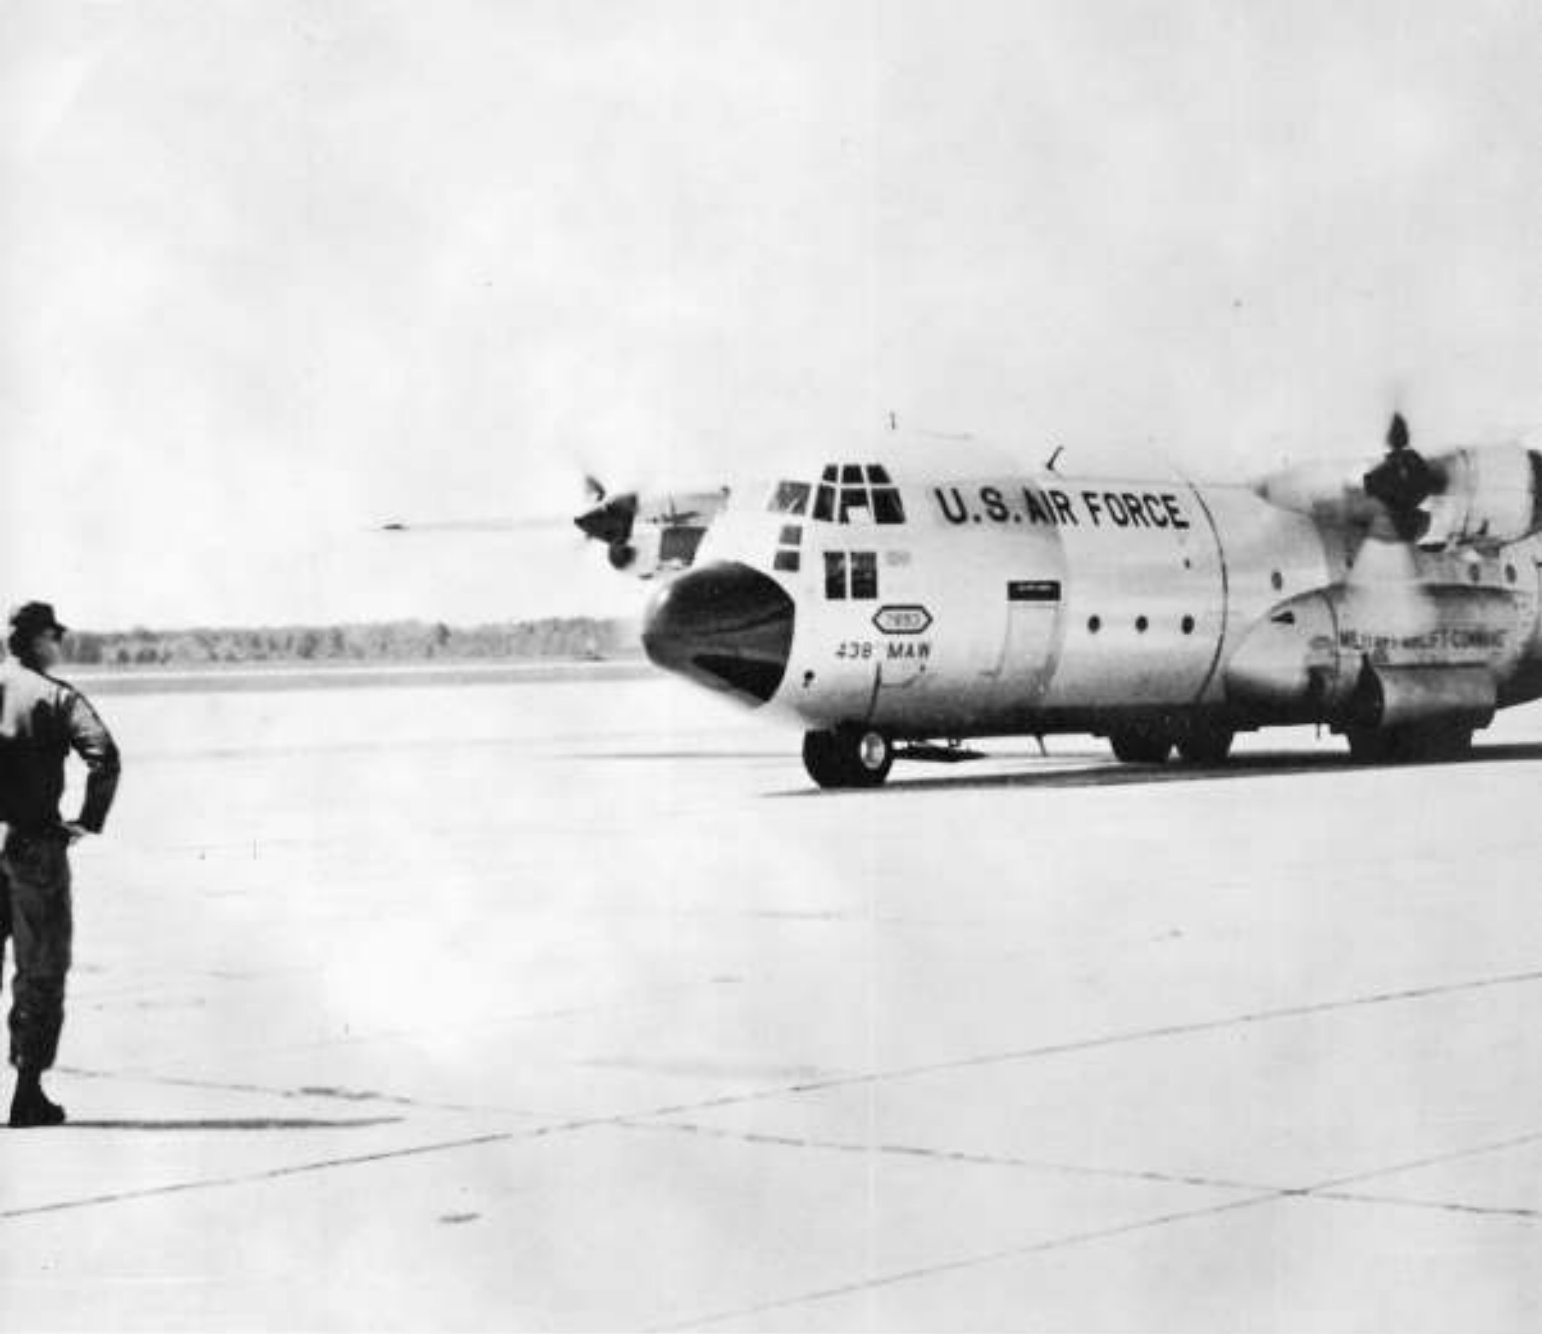

Shows, popcorn, cold drinks, tape recorders and recorded tapes; these are some of the things our Special Services staff provided for our off duty hours. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy". Special Services did their best to make sure there were no "dull boys" at Camp Campbell.

HOME AT LAST

WELCOME HOME
MCB 121
"WE ARE PROUD of YOU"
The people of GULFPORT!

Tears and kisses were the order of the day as we were reunited with our friends and families after 8½ months. The celebration resembled a love-in, but that was expected. After all, Seabees of the 121st are capable of handling any situation.

Battalion Commendations

From: General Creighton W. Abrams
U. S. Army, Deputy Commander

1. An advance party from MACV arrived in Phu Bai on 29 January to establish a forward headquarters for Northern I Corps Tactical Zone operations. Construction assistance of considerable magnitude was a prerequisite to the successful establishment of this command, and your immediate response to these needs has been most gratifying.
2. In the short period of time since my advance party arrived on site, I am very pleased to note that the helicopter parking apron and revetments for the dial central have been completed and most of the bunkers and revetments in the vicinity of the Headquarters are either complete or in advanced stages of construction. Construction of the Tactical Operations Center is also progressing well. The protective construction now complete has already enhanced our defensive posture, and completion of the TOC will ensure our ability for continuity of operations in the event of intensified enemy operations.
3. Your expeditious action to undertake and prosecute this new, unanticipated workload has been most commendable. The cooperative spirit and hard work of both your officer and enlisted personnel in fulfilling these requirements has been noteworthy. Please convey my personal appreciation to your officers and men for a job well done.

From: LTGEN Cushman

1. At your Battalion departs Vietnam upon completion of a most successful deployment, you carry with you the gratitude of all forces whose cause you have aided. The accomplishments of USNMCB-121 during this deployment have added another chapter to the proud history of Seabee success in the Republic of Vietnam.

2. The missions of III Marine Amphibious Force have been substantially furthered by your successful employment on many important projects. Significant projects undertaken by your battalion during the past nine months include reopening Route #1 from Phu Bai to Nuoc Ngot following the TET offensive, construction of helicopter parking apron, dial central revetments, and tactical operations center for MACV Forward at Phu Bai, and installations of static POL pipelines in the Hue/Phu Bai area, which was completed ahead of schedule.

4. Your success has contributed to the Seabee reputation of quantity, quality and dependability.

All forces of the I Corps Tactical Zone join me in expressing appreciation for a job well done.

From: RADM Bartlett

1. The departure of MCB-121 from Phu Bai Combat Base marks the completion of your first deployment since recommissioning. You leave Vietnam a seasoned, cohesive, veteran construction unit, second to none. Well done.

2. Your immediate response on road and bridge construction and repairs following the TET aggression played a large role in contributing to the military efforts that regained the initiative in such a short time. I have personally noted the enthusiastic manner in which all construction and activities are undertaken by your Battalion.

3. Best wishes for a happy reunion with your loved ones at home.

From: CAPT James M. Hill, Jr.
Commander Thirty Second Naval Construction Regiment

1. As your current deployment to Vietnam is concluded you are commended and congratulated for your vast accomplishments. Your efforts in keeping Route #1 open in spite of intensive enemy action and the excellent progress of upgrading your assigned section is especially noteworthy. Your outstanding production of tactical, defense and logistic facilities permitted response to unscheduled requirements as well as completing of all scheduled work. Your efforts on behalf of the Vietnamese people and your contribution to the total effort of the free world forces in Vietnam are recognized and appreciated. You can leave with great pride in a job "well done." Please convey my appreciation to every Seabee in NMCB-121.

2. Best wishes for a happy and fruitful homeport deployment.

From: CAPT Robert C. Engram
Commander Twentieth
Naval Construction Regiment

1. On 5 March, 1967 at 5:45 P.M. an explosion and fire was reported in Building 142. The CB Center Fire Division responded and found one wing completely engulfed in fire with a great possibility of extension to the entire structure. During this fire, personnel of MCB-121 rendered valuable assistance to the CBC Fire Division. These personnel conducted themselves in a manner that reflected credit upon themselves, their unit, and the Naval service.

2. I would like to express, to all personnel concerned, sincere thanks and appreciation for a job well done.
