

K-9 PATROL DIVISION

K-9 Blaze

THE TAISEY AGENCY LLC

A K-9 patrol dog is a significant visual deterrent for offenders who are in a crime-mode.

Why are K-9 patrols so efficient?

Patrol dogs have been protecting client interests and holdings for decades. Patrol dogs are the back-bone of K-9 Unit's and are used in many assignments from handler protection, to guarding critical infrastructure and providing close personal protection or to serve as a deterrent. However, the real story behind this popular profile is the efficiency a dog can provide when it comes to proactive patrols of large areas or infrastructure. A patrol dog can search a very large area in a fraction of the time a person can, and with complete assurance that safety measures have been accounted for. Did you know that a single K-9 patrolling an area can be more effective than four security officers?

Why are patrol dogs such a deterrent to crime?

With their acute sense of hearing and smell, patrol dogs are an extremely effective deterrent to crime. The Taisey Agency patrol dog is highly mobile, with his primary purpose is to deter criminal activity with their presence.

Is visibility important?

K-9 "Blaze at The Taisey Agency rides with his handler in a marked vehicle with a built-in kennel. Our K9 vehicle is highly visible and also act as a deterrent to offenders while the vehicle is parked or on patrol.

The public is used to seeing dogs patrolling areas where public safety is a priority, such as parks, parking lots, office buildings, waterfront areas, airports and more. Blaze is very comfortable working closely in and around the public and is highly socialized to all environments. Blaze works around cars, crowds, heavy machinery, noise, other dogs and children. When Blaze is working, strict obedience and training standards are adhered to in the course of his duties. His bark alone can deter the crime from ever happening.
