

Mrs. Lynda Lee Lunday

Lynda Lee Lunday is a career speech-language pathologist with 25 years of experience specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of speech, language, voice, cognition and swallowing disorders for adults, especially those with head and neck cancer, traumatic brain injury or stroke.

Lynda Lee has worked in acute care hospitals for the majority of her career, and has highly specialized experience with diagnosis of swallowing disorders (dysphagia) using the Flexible Endoscopic Evaluation System and Modified Barium Swallow radiological study. She has owned and managed her own speech-language pathology business since 2011, specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of patients with especially challenging disorders and conditions. She is an active member of the Dysphagia Research Society (DRS), bringing together world leaders in the diagnosis and treatment of swallowing disorders.

Lynda Lee previously served as the Director of Station Club Enterprises in Morehead City, North Carolina, an Adult Developmental Activities Program. During that time, she served as a member of the Mayor's Committee on the Handicapped, advising local elected officials and the business community on the implementation of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Lynda Lee earned a Master of Science Degree in Speech-Language Pathology from Gallaudet University, the school for the deaf in Washington, DC. Prior to that, she also earned a Master of Education degree in Special Education/Deaf Education from the University of North Florida.

Lynda Lee has been active since 2016 as an Ambassador for Easter Seals MD/DC/VA, serving as a liaison between the U.S. Coast Guard and Easter Seals, advising the Board of Directors on the broad range of services that Easter Seals provides to military veterans and their families.

Lynda Lee is a lifelong singer and performed as a second soprano with the Virginia Symphony Chorus from 1998-2015, including two international tours in the Czech Republic and Germany. She also sang with the Jacksonville Symphony Chorus.

Lynda Lee is a proud military spouse, married to Rear Admiral Kevin E. Lunday, Commander of the Fourteenth U.S. Coast Guard District.
