

Gayle Jameson, MSN, ACNP-BC, AOCN

Objectives

Advances in the Treatment of Pancreatic Cancer: Nursing Education to Optimize Clinical Practice and Support Patients in Decision-Making

This presentation will improve nurses' ability to optimize patient through a shared decision-making approach between clinicians and patients that accelerate the awareness and integration of evidence-based therapeutic approaches for the treatment of pancreatic cancer. At the conclusion of this presentation nurses will have learned:

- Baseline Assessment
- Overview of Advanced Pancreatic Ductal Adenocarcinoma
- Current Therapeutic Options for Metastatic Pancreatic Cancer
- First-line Treatment
- Genetic Testing and Targeted Therapy for Pancreatic Cancer
- Second-line Treatment
- Palliative Care for Patients With Pancreatic Cancer: Symptom Management and Prevention
- Emerging Strategies