

Driven to excel by passion, yet, destined to lead by design, Angelique Marika portrays the epitome of excellence in today's society. Her impeccable interpersonal skills combined with her profusion of knowledge have propelled her to not only reach for the masses in efforts of transforming lives of women, but to ultimately lead by example. As a woman of distinguished culture, Angelique blazes trails with her innovative view of life; not as an obstacle to be overcome, but as a gift to be re-opened daily.

As a speaker, she empowers. As a psalmist, she encourages. As a single mother, she perseveres. As the youngest child of eight, she triumphs in circumstances. As an aspiring author, she creates. As a leader, she exemplifies purpose. As a single lady, she strides in grace and strength. As a woman, she soars; organically...effortlessly. A contracts manager by day and a part-time continuing education student, Angelique's endeavors speak volume by which her enthusiasm follows. Conveying a fervent drive to help teenaged girls and women establish their sense of purpose, she has chosen to use her past experiences to ignite her prominent future. Everything she touches turns to gold, by the power of God's presence which dwells within her. Having a tender heart for the empowerment of teen-aged girls, she is committed to renovating their minds in order for them to operate in authority, not succumb to their inferiority. She holds on diligently to the fact that if she can conquer the fear and shame of a teenage pregnancy, a divorce, toxic relationships, domestic violence, depression and lack of self esteem; then by all means, anyone can.

Angelique currently resides outside of Chicago, Illinois with a teenaged daughter and a college daughter in Washington, D.C. She is currently pursuing her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Organizational Leadership at Lewis University. Her first published book of inspiration is set to launch in the Spring of 2019.
