

PREAMBLE

The “Green Book” is comprised of four parts, which serve different purposes.

Part I: Constitution. The Constitution is the broadest document. It spells out the nature of our club, its membership, and broad fundamentals of its organization and operations. It provides structure, definition and backbone, and is the foundation of the club. The Constitution may be amended, but only by a two-thirds vote of the Board; then after a minimum 30 days advance written notice (i.e. the Newsletter) of the proposed changes, the members in good standing who are in attendance at the designated meeting where the vote takes place must approve of the amendment(s) by a two-thirds vote on written ballot.

Part II: By-Laws. The By-Laws are governed by the Constitution and are created as a set of rules for day to day operations and conducting of business, based on the foundational principles of the Constitution. The By-Laws provide specific procedural rules and more exacting guidelines than the Constitution. The By-Laws may be amended, but only by a two-thirds vote of the Board; and then after a minimum 30 days advance written notice (i.e. the Newsletter) of the proposed changes, the members in good standing who are in attendance at the designated meeting where the vote takes place must approve the amendment(s) by a majority vote on written ballot.

Part III: Constitution and By-Laws of the Home Association, Inc. The Home Association was created as a “property holding and managing body for the chapter.” The Home Association Constitution and By-Laws are redundant to the Constitution and By-Laws of the York chapter #67 of the IWLA .

Part IV: Ground Rules. Ground rules, with the exception of “The use and/or sale of...alcohol or drugs” (part of the Constitution), have the status of standing rules. Standing rules are rules or resolutions that are of a continuing (or standing) nature. These rules deal with administrative matters and function under the umbrella of the By-Laws. Standing rules tend to be established as needed by committees or other subsets of management, can be adopted at any Board, chapter, or committee meeting without notice and can pass upon a simple majority vote of the members in good standing in attendance at said meeting, subject to final approval of the Board. By-Laws and standing rules are interrelated; however, provisions in the By-Laws always supersede any standing rule that may be adopted.

NOTE: In all instances in the Constitution and/or By-Laws where a person is referred to in the third person, the term “he” or “-man” is to be understood in the generic sense.
