Call to transformation: Individuals, Church and Society

In Laudato Si' paragraph 202, Pope Francis says that "A great cultural, spiritual, and educational challenge stands before us, and it will demand that we set out on the long path of renewal."

On October 10, 2021, Pope Francis launched a two-year synod process in the Catholic Church. This is a "time to look others in the eye and listen to what they have to say, to build rapport, to be sensitive to the questions of our sisters and brothers." Our world is in the midst of a climate emergency. To move toward a greener and more sustainable future, drastic changes need to happen in our society at the environmental, economic, and social levels. We trust that God is with us and leading us on a path towards a just and more sustainable world for all humanity and for all of God's creatures.

You are invited to our diocesan web site at <http://www.diomoncton.ca/en/news-item/diocesan-committee-laudato-si-> to view the sixth presentation from our Laudato Si Committee, prepared by Mr Eugène Aucoin.

Exploring our Faith

Common Space

There is a poster on the wall in my office that has followed me from place to place for several years. Through graphics it shows how the sacred texts of 13 faiths from around the world each contain “The Golden Rule.” From Islam and Christianity to Traditional Native Spirituality and Confucianism, we all hold sacred some version of “Do unto others what you would have them do unto you,” which was the version I learned as a child. The poster on my office wall is part of an interfaith education initiative of Scarborough Missions (a Society of Canadian Catholics, priests and laity), and they have developed an impressive curriculum for engaging in interfaith dialogue, espousing such principles as “Dialogue can take place only between equals... Both must come to learn from each other,” and “The primary purpose of dialogue is to learn; that is, to change and grow in the perception and understanding of reality, and then to act accordingly.” In other words, if I greet others on a platform of respect and openness, I might learn something about other traditions and grow as a person in the process. I think this one part of today’s gospel resonated with me because I need a unifying dialogue, something we can all agree on and work towards. Not just interfaith dialogue. I need this in my life, and I think it is needed in our church, country, and world.

Some might relate to my mother’s stories of growing up in Minudie, Nova Scotia (essentially one road). On one side of the road there was St. Denis Catholic Church, then the Glebe House, then a one-room school house, and next to that a Universalist Church. My mother was strictly warned to never set foot in the Universalist Church, as this would be a sin and could possibly result in a black mark the size of hell on her soul that Jesus would find after she died and it was time to count “the black marks”. Years later of course I was not allowed to go to Vacation Bible School at the Salisbury Baptist Church because of the sin and the black marks and so forth, but I have gotten over it.

If not in the 1950’s, the Church today has something valuable to teach us about dialogue. One of the documents arising from the Second Vatican Council was Nostra Aetate: Declaration on the Relation of the Church to non-Christian religions, which “reverses the work of God in all the major faith traditions,” and was considered a major step forward in the Church’s relationship with other faiths. The first words of Nostra Aetate, written in 1965, struck me as ironic in 2022, and I wanted to finish with them:

In our time, when day by day mankind is being drawn closer together, and the ties between different peoples are becoming stronger, the Church examines more closely her relationship to non-Christian religions. In her task of promoting unity and love among humans, indeed among nations, she considers above all in this declaration what humans have in common and what draws them to fellowship. (1)

And I am not bitter about the Vacation Bible School.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S PARISH COUNCIL

Each of Christ's Faithful, in their own way, participates in the responsibility for the life of their parish community." Moncton Diocesan Guidance Document.

The Local Pastoral Council (LPC) provides the opportunity to work together to build and maintain the vitality of this Christian community. Your LPC is the voice of St. Augustine's parishioners, and in partnership with Fr. Angus, examine and respond to the needs and mission of our faith community.

New team members required for 2022. We are a wonderfully diverse and progressive faith community. We have a place for you at this table. Please consider this invitation and respond by email to Parish Team of Charlie Farrell, Kim (secretary), Father Angus or any of your Council Members.

Next year Bishops from around the world will journey to Rome for a meeting called a Synod. In Rome, they will strive to discern the Holy Spirit's calls for the Church today. But this journey will start in Churches all around the world, where people will gather to talk about what the Church is doing well and what it could be doing better. We would like each and every one of you to participate in these discussions. Meetings will be set up at different times and places, in person and through technology. We will seek to give everyone a chance to be heard. The results of these consultations will be provided to our Bishop so he will have the benefit of the full views of our community.

There is a lot to talk about. How is our journey together going? Is our Church listening to us? Is our celebration of the Mass together helping us in our faith journey? What more can we be doing in the Church and in the broader community? How can we better support each other in our faith and our works?

In the next few weeks, we will be reaching out with more specifics, but please start thinking and dreaming about what the Church can be in the future and be ready to come and talk about what we can do to make our hopes for the Church come true.

The Parish office will be closed
Monday February 21st for Family Day.
