Cryptolists 3

By Margaret P. Fay ❖ July 13, 2016

The trickster is back! Every time Helga Donax, double reed list maker extraordinaire, goes to input another one of her famous lists, a prankster seems to have mixed up the letters on her computer keyboard! In each of the lists below, can you figure out what words Helga meant to type, by substituting one letter of the alphabet for another? The words within each list use the same code, but each list uses a different code.

Example: BASSOON   Note: None of the lists below use the code from the example.
