

I understand the new age very well because I was caught in its snare before it had a name, in the 1960s. I know its strong attraction; it offers the most seductive appeal imaginable. It promises the benefits and comfort of religion without the demands of discipleship. It offers freedom from guilt by declaring that sin doesn't exist: there's no right or wrong. It offers salvation through secret knowledge rather than through following Scripture. It is a skillful satanic deception, carefully crafted in hell to turn seeking hearts from Christ, the only true Way. I was seeking salvation without accountability. If anyone—say a Hollywood celebrity—tells you he or she is spiritual but not religious, that person is on the same deadly path I was on—“giving heed to doctrines of demons” (I Tim. 4: 1). It's the same ancient lie: “you shall be as God” (Gen. 3:5). All for Jesus, Richard
