Dear Steve:

This letter and the enclosure are intended to serve as the annual update from the Greater Burlington Partnership regarding the utilization of revenue from the Southeast Iowa Regional Riverboat Commission.

The Greater Burlington community has determined from its inception that the best method for deploying SIRRC resources was to fund an aggressive economic development program which would produce long term benefits and maximize the return on investment. Over time, this has proven to be an effective use of the dollars and has produced a number of community benefits.

In 2014, the economic development board of directors expects revenue from SIRRC to provide nearly 54% of the funding for the organization's annual budget- the foundational support for an aggressive, professional, and competitive economic development program. Those dollars are leveraged with private contributions and have been utilized in the following ways:

- The establishment of a full service, competitive and aggressive community economic development program.
- The acquisition of land and the development of an upscale mixed use business park.
- Community investment - since inception, more than $1,197,000 has been authorized for strategic community investments which range from quality of life initiatives and infrastructure improvements to funding for drug abuse prevention.
- Formulated and implemented strategies to address workforce training and development challenges.
- Marketing of Greater Burlington domestically and internationally to business prospects- emphasizing face to face contact.
- Funded research and infrastructure studies to better understand the strengths and weaknesses of the community.
- Aligned public and private interests in order to close economic development deals and secure financial assistance packages for capital investment and job creation projects.
- Assisted entrepreneurs in business plan development start-up strategies.

During the 2013 budgeting cycle, the board of directors directed approximately 12% of the SIRRC revenue into its 'community investment' line-item. Although some specific grants have been made, the remaining dollars will be rolled into a fund for use on future community grants. The balance of that fund at the end of 2013 is estimated to be $41,800.

The following page details some of the specific successes of the Greater Burlington Partnership's economic development programming using the foundational financial support provided by SIRRC. The economic development board of directors and staff wish to express our appreciation to SIRRC for its ongoing support. This community would look very different without SIRRC.

Sincerely,

Jason Hutcheson, CEcD
