

Maybe we haven't realized what a perilous path we're on. This world is a treacherous place for Christians. "All that is in the world," John said, "is not of the Father." The world is wonderfully attractive. It includes all that our fallen nature craves (the lust of the flesh), everything we look on with desire (the lust of the eye), and all that drives us to win life's games (the pride of life) (I John 2:15-17). God stamps "Handle with Care" on this world's systems. Does that mean we should withdraw into monkish retreat, or refuse all pleasure in things God created for our enjoyment (I Tim. 6:17)? Not at all. But it does warn us that the world is potentially a subtle, deadly poison, that the things most esteemed by us humans are an abomination to God (Luke 16:15)—and that we can't love both God and the world. All for Jesus, Richard

Making A Godly Impact "MAGI"

This is the mission of our MAGI box project. The empty boxes are here waiting for you to take home to fill with gifts for children. Each box is given out with a joyful smile and each family receives the Bible that is in the box so they can learn about Jesus' love for them.

I had a report this week about a group that went to south Texas to hold Bible School. They gave out MAGI boxes and were blown away by the reception they received from these gifts. They are now ready to fill more boxes with gifts.

Hope you will enjoy this mission for the children. Boxes are in foyer, return day is Sept. 1st!

Any questions contact Julia Hale.
