

Cheewa James' enthusiasm and zest for life have permeated our whole Manpower company! She did a two-day training and facilitation for our management team and a keynote for our entire company. She helped us address, head on, communication issues that we have been skirting for years.

Our marketing manager Laura Lindloff said the training and facilitation "was the best we ever had. Positive energy is still flowing. The information I learned from her will change my life."

Debbie Galbaugh, finance manager, said: "She helped me to understand what team work is really all about. She helped me step out of my comfort zone and dare new things."

Our operating manager Ed Deats was especially moved by her keynote address. "People are saying that her inspiring keynote speech was the best meeting they had ever attended."

I think our general manager Michael Dourgarian summed up what we are all feeling here at Manpower. "Cheewa uses simple analogies to effectively communicate complex subjects. Her fee was money well invested by our company."

Sincerely yours,

—Joan Ott, Manpower
